OFFICIAL.

Proclamation by the Governor.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

To the Sheriffs of the counties of Jefferson, Henry, Oldham and Owen, composing the Fifth Congressional District, greeting:

WHEREAS, IT HAS BEEN MADE KNOWN to me that the Hon. L. H. Rousseau, who was elected at the August election, 1865, Representative of the Fifth Congressional District, composed of the counties of Jefferson, Oldham, Henry and Owen, has resigned said office.

Now, therefore, I, THOMAS E. BRAMLETTE, Governor of the Commonwealth aforesaid, in pursuance of the authority vested in me by law, do hereby direct that an election be held in said counties, at the several places of voting therein authorized by law, on SATURDAY, the 15th day of September next, for the election of a qualified person to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the said L. H. Rousseau; and that you cause polls to be opened in your said counties accordingly, and proceed with the same as directed by law, and make return according to law, without delay, to the Secretary of State.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed at Frankfort this, the 8th day of August, A. D. 1866, and in the seventy-fifth year of the Commonwealth.

THOS. E. BRAMLETTE.

To our Country Patrons.

Please to register your letters containing remittances, as we hold ourselves responsible for all losses to us when letters are registered. We are not responsible for losses in the mails, should any occur, unless letters are registered.

☞ The election in this State cuts some figure amongst our neighbors. The Radicals say Democrats are the same everywhere, and, after showing that they are rebels in Kentucky, they conclude that they are so elsewhere. They prove the identity of the party in this State with those in other States by the testimony of Pendleton, Vallandigham and Voorhees. But then they hold that the other side in this State were half rebels, too; no more fit to be trusted than the other.

In the political storm now raging our movements in Kentucky are not half as important as our self-conceit would imagine. The Democrats North have heard the cry of rebel until they don't care a copper for it. They had just as soon these Radicals would call them rebels as anything else. They are, in fact, engaged now in a tremendous rebellion against the Vandals and Jacobins in Congress; and we hope it will end better than the other rebellion; for this rebellion is a good one. It is to repair the mischief done by the other. These Radicals will make the name rebel respectable, if they don't dry up; and the very words loyalty and freedom disgusting.

DEAN RICHMOND.—Every now and then a great man, whose name has figured in Congressional history of the country, dies, and we hear it trumpeted to the echo that, hearing it, repeats. Here, however, is a great man, a great politician—a man who made Congressmen—and there was, or is, something in him. He began the world by clerking, and paying his father's debts with the surplus. The same trait marked him throughout life. He was a straightforward, direct, plain man, who did the best for his friends, and perhaps, for his enemies. He got to be rich, as almost any one following steadily one pursuit can; but he got to be more than that, a respectable and influential citizen. With broad and generous ideas of what the government is founded on, he lent his influence to the support of Democratic principles. He has been so well known in New York, that the newspapers, both for and against the party, have classed and named a clique after him. But it is remarkable, among all the harsh censure and criticism, not a word has been said against his private motives, and he, of all New York politicians, comes out pure of money.

☞ The Frankfort Commonwealth says that from all indications the President has thrown himself into the arms or at the heads of the Copperheads.

The Commonwealth declines to be either. It can't stand Mr. Johnson. How many errors in life might be corrected in time! No doubt if Mr. Johnson had had any idea of the change or flip-flap of the Commonwealth he would have worn spring-heeled boots and jumped accordingly.

It is remarkable, however, that the President has even survived the hostility of our Frankfort neighbor; but he has even done more. He has outlived his friendship and support—a something far more fatal.

☞ The chaplain who prayed over that bogus convention, at New Orleans, got together to upset the State government, under the protection of a mob, writes a dolorous letter, in which he complains that Union men have no protection. Let men behave themselves and not insult communities in which they live, and we guess they can get along. These difficulties show the incapacity of the party in power. They are better at making rebellions than putting them down.

Let the Democrats get hold of the government, and a Union man can live South, and an ex-rebel North, just as safely as elsewhere, in a few months' time.

A SUGGESTION.—A Chicago paper has the following:

"It has been suggested that, in view of the fact that the body of man undergoes a continual change and renovation, he should be remarried every seven years, since he would otherwise be living with a different woman from the one he had wedded."

The idea is perfectly Chicagoish. Judging from the reports published in the papers of that city, one could hardly fail to be convinced that a large proportion of the men of that city are certainly in need of the renovation suggested, as they seem to be "living with different women from the ones they had wedded."—[Chattanooga Union.

The Union is right. Either the men or women ought to be born again; for there was an evident mistake on the first trial. We don't think that even satan would like to have a room full.

☞ There is no meaner reptile in this country than the super loyal B. F. Butler. No man encouraged secession at Charleston and Baltimore more than he. He was hob-nobbing and pow-wowing with the original conspirators. As soon as they began to practice what he preached, he turned fiercely upon them and became not only an enemy, but a malignant persecutor, renowned for his military incapacity and his meanness. He wants to go to Congress, but he can't swear that he did not give counsel and encouragement. Yes, he can swear anything; but he can't swear it without—something.

☞ A Republican of Philadelphia declines the appointment given him to attend the Radical convention, and joins the Johnson club, indignant at the conduct of the Mayor and Council. He says hereafter he will act with a party that appear to have some sense of honor and decency. He ought to remember that honor and decency are worldly matters; and incompatible with great moral ideas.

☞ The Rochester Express, belonging to the party of moral ideas, says:

Men of lesser note we do not mention. Hand them down to history with a Cain, a Judas or a Benedict Arnold. Yes, down! down to h—, with their father, the arch traitor of heaven, and say that freedom's sons sent them there.

One of these sons of freedom had better send them elsewhere, if he wants to get them out of his way.

☞ If the South does not improve, Gen. Butler says, "we will march once more, and woe to him that opposes." Very dangerous man, this Butler, to unarmed men, women and children; and he is not slow on money bags. But, according to General Grant, he is not otherwise dangerous.

☞ A Radical paper says Philadelphia was full of traitors and rebels on the 14th of August. It could not have been full of them. Some of the party based on moral ideas were there; for we lost the contents of a pocket-book about that time, and so did many others.

☞ So far, we have heard of one colored delegate to the Philadelphia convention. That will not do. Who are to represent the four million of loyal people in the South? Can't the Radicals of the South stand up to their promises better than that?

☞ The Mayor and Council of Philadelphia skulked away from the reception of the President, and thereby won the contempt of the rest of mankind.

ANOTHER MOB.—The mob in Maryland is another proof that the Radical party is unfit to rule this country.

The Courier's Pretensions—Advertising Gas, &c.

When the Louisville Courier was about to be revived last autumn, the publisher of that paper, in connection with other city publishers, met and conferred upon various subjects of interest, and among them, that of advertising. A schedule of rates was agreed upon, and each publisher bound himself to adhere to it. It is true the terms were graded much below the charges for similar advertising in St. Louis, Chicago and Cincinnati, still they were deemed fair, and such as our patrons could not object to. It is equally true that all the expenses of publishing a paper in Louisville are as much or more than in either of the cities named. The startling announcement, however, in the Courier of Saturday morning need not alarm advertisers. He gives four reasons why he jumps his rates up to double the price agreed upon with other publishers, and after the expenditure of much gas in self-laudation and talking about "first-class" papers, carefully appends, as a concluding clause, the following paragraph:

"It is proper to say that the new schedule will have no effect on existing contracts, all of which will be carried out as agreed upon."

So, dear public, you are not yet put to the advance of one hundred per cent. The rate you pay that paper will be continued, but the head of gas had to find vent in some such article, wherefore the editor, to enhance his paper in the public estimation, put forth "the stunner" on the subject of his new advertising rates.

The other publishers have, so far as we know, kept their agreement in good faith, never departing from schedule rates, unless under peculiar circumstances, and in agreed cases.

For a little self-laudation and blustering pretension, however, the Courier violates its agreement, and abandons in other respects conditions entered upon at Haldeman's own instance, and mainly for his benefit.

We expect to keep on in the even tenor of our way, and charge our patrons according to agreed rates, seeking neither to drive them from our columns nor to exact such terms as they cannot afford.

The Louisville Democrat publishes the Louisville letter list "by authority," because its circulation entitles it to it. It publishes also on Sunday morning as one of its regular series, and it is read by all classes more thoroughly than any paper of the week. Advertisers will please make a note of these important facts and act accordingly.

☞ The party based on great moral ideas are cutting up high in sundry places, attacking with brickbats and clubs Democratic processions, and even throwing eggs at young ladies returning from Democratic meetings.

☞ The difference between the Radicals and Johnson is, that they are for the Union, if at all, on certain conditions. Johnson is for the Union without conditions. He is now the unconditional Union man.

☞ The Radicals of Indiana want to get Brownlow to speak in their behalf as he passes through the State to the Philadelphia convention. He will just suit them.

☞ Col. T. Lyle Dickey, of the 4th Illinois cavalry, was nominated by the Springfield convention as the Democratic candidate for Congress for the State at large.

☞ According to Republican papers, their orators are making mighty speeches, and the Democrats poor ones. Some people think otherwise.

☞ Some rowdies in Brooklyn, New York, attacked a negro and killed him without any provocation. That State needs reconstructing.

☞ Justice will triumph. We have God's promise for that, says Wendell Phillips. That is just what Phillips would be afraid of if he were sensible.

☞ The Duchess de Mouchy leads the fashion in Paris. A fashion writer records that at the last dinner party of St. Cloud the Duchess wore a striped mauve and white silk dress; the stripes were narrow and of equal width. Every breadth was trimmed at the seam with a cross band of mauve silk, worked with crystal beads. The Empire bodice, which was low, square and plain, was trimmed with mauve silk bands, ornamented with beads; the bands were arranged in the form of a sheaf. A new Empire sash was added to this dress. It was a white waistband, which did not encircle the waist, as it stopped at the side and formed in front a trellis-work of narrow mauve straps. This sash was made of rich mauve gros grain, covered with crystal beads.

SORGHUM FREE OF TAX.—The Internal Revenue Commissioner, in reply to inquiries whether there is any internal duty on the products of sorghum, replies that molasses and sugar made from sorghum or imphee are, and have been, since the passage of the act of March 3d, 1865, exempt from duty.

THE TRANSFUSION OF BLOOD.—It is announced that the wonderful medical operation of blood from the body of a healthy person to that of a sickly one has just been performed at Vienna. This method of transfusion is but rarely resorted to, and only in cases of excessive debility when all other remedies fail.

Our Mother's Dead.

[illegible]

BY J. WARD CHILDS.

Mother! alas! no faint reply;
 Dear Mother! can, oh! can it be
That Death has dimmed thy loving eye
 That we no more it[illegible] shall see
No more thy gentle accents hear
In tender words of love and cheer?

Alas! too true—our Mother's dead!
Her spirit to it's God hath fled
She sleeps the sleep from which none wake
In [illegible] which no waiting break.
A faithful servant of the Lord,
She's gone to reap her rich reward.

Our pathway now seems dark and drear,
Since thou hast left us, Mother dear!
The home light of our life is fled,
And every cherished hope is dead,
Our hearts are shrouded now in gloom,
And, bleeding, hover o'er thy tomb.

But though we'll see thee here no more
We know thou'rt only gone before
To that bright world where we shall meet
E're long around the Mercy seat,
In everlasting bonds to dwell—
No more to breathe the sad farewell.

Oh! bitter are the pangs which rend
Our hearts. Oh, God! our dearest Friend
And Comforter, with pitying eye
Look down upon us from on high,
And comfort us in our distress,
And to our good, our sorrow bless.

Teach us, oh! God, in holy love,
To turn our weeping eyes above
To Heaven, where she has gone, to dwell
With Thee, "Who doeth all things well."
And may this sad bereavement be
A chord to draw us nearer Thee.

The Revelers.

BY HARRY L. SINCLAIR.

"Eat, drink and be merry—to-morrow we die,"
 Who says this philosophy, is not the best?
Give me something to drown every lingering sigh
 Of regret, and to put my mind tortures to rest.

What though gloomy adversity roll its dark waves
 O'er our spirits, fill us with dread and dismay;
To dark, dismal despair we will never be slaves;
 While the merry night lasts, what need care we for day?

"[illegible]" let us live while we live,
 And fling to the four winds of Heaven all cares;
What pleasure like that which the wine cup can give?
 What banquets so rich as those Bacchus prepares?

Away, then, away with each tone of regret;
 Let the past be forgotten, the present is ours;
What cannot be mended 'tis best to forget,
 Then while yet we may, let us gather life's flowers.

Fill high to the brim, then the bright flowing bowl,
 It will drive away care, it will drown all our grief.
As men are but hastening to one common goal,
 Then why not be merry, since life is so brief?

The rich, ruby wine and the sparkling champagne,
 Talk not of your springs of cold water to me!
When the heart has grown weary, 'tis never in vain
 Do we seek for [illegible], sweet nectar, in thee!

One bumper at parting, to the maids we adore,
 We will drink to their healths, in the richest of wine;
If ye love may ye never have cause to deplore
 The falseness of her ye would fondly call thine.

NEW ALBANY, August [illegible], 1866.

RELIGIOUS AFFAIRS.

—The first Episcopal Church in Kentucky was Christ Church, in Lexington, organized in 1794, by a body of emigrants from Virginia. The second was our Christ Church, built in 1822, when its present location was beyond the town limits.

—Among recent ordinations by the Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, was a great grandson of Bishop Seabury—"the fifth generation, in lineal descent, in the ministry of the Church."

—Says the Episcopalian: There are only two Episcopal publications in this country—the Western Episcopalian and the Episcopalian in the East—which dissent from the views of Dr. Pusey and his sympathizers.

—Rev. Dr. Berkley, formerly Rector of the Episcopal Church in Lexington, Ky., has been giving "Readings" in Lexington, Mo., for benevolent purposes. His rendering of some of the poems of Ross and also of Tennyson's Charge of the Light Brigade is spoken of in the highest terms. Dr. Berkley is thought by judges equal to any professional elocutionists, and his efforts to make his remarkable talent contribute to the cause of benevolence are highly commendable and have met with signal success.

—The Long Run Association, which embraces the churches of this city, meets at Simpsonville next Tuesday, the 4th instant.

—Rev. S. F. Thompson, for ten years pastor of the Baptist Church in Shelbyville, having been selected Corresponding Secretary of the General Association of Kentucky, has resigned his pastoral relation, and will hereafter be located in Louisville.

—Senator Doolittle, of Wisconsin, President of the late Philadelphia convention, is a Baptist.

—A note just received from Booneville informs us that Rev. Father Hillner, of that place, has been arrested by the Sheriff, and consigned to the common jail, for the grave offense of worshiping his heavenly Master without first taking the iniquitous oath prescribed by the new Constitution. The reverend gentleman is well known throughout Cooper county as a good and pious divine, and as an exemplary and unobtrusive citizen.

[St. Louis Rep., August 13.

—Out of 25,000 missionary communicants of all denominations in India, 2,000 are preachers—1,800 as catechists, and 200 with ordination.

—Dr. Chapin's Society of New York will occupy their new church, in Fifth avenue, probably in October.

—Professor Mattison has returned to the Methodist Church, from which he has been separated some years.

—In the Ecclesiastical Province of San Francisco, embracing California and Nevada, there are 98 Catholic clergymen, and 115 churches and chapels.

JEWS MASSACRED.—The Mohammedan inhabitants of Mazanderan, in Persia, massacred a great number of Jews in that town during the festival of Moharrem, and have compelled the rest to adopt Mohammedanism.

—The Jewish Messenger, of New York, complains that the Jews in that city keep themselves too much aloof from their fellow men; that while they are eminently successful in all the pursuits of life, they do not mingle so freely, familiarly, and equally with their fellow-citizens as do Israelites in Paris, Vienna, Turin, and London with their neighbors.

The Cattle Plague in Kentucky.

If we have been providentially saved from the curse of the rinderpest, there is a prevalent disease fatal to the live stock of Kentucky, the effects of which are sufficient to excite our liveliest apprehensions for the farming and grazing community.

A very malignant and fatal distemper has broken out among the cattle in the lower part of Fayette county and that part of Scott along the Fayette line. A great number of cattle have died. Death usually ensues on the third day after the attack. The disease was brought into the neighborhood by some cattle lately imported from Texas.

Texas cattle driven here bring a fever with them, and that Kentucky cattle die of it there is no doubt, as thousands of people here can testify. There is but one solution of this mystery, and that is the following: There is a shrub in Texas and the Indian Territory that produces running sores on the legs of cattle and between the hoofs. They deposit this matter on the grass as they are driven through, and our cattle grazing after, eat this matter, which produces fever and death.

As great uneasiness is being felt in the country about this disease now prevailing in different parts of our county and one or two adjoining counties, introduced by cattle recently brought from Texas and now grazing in different localities, it will be well for our farmers to know that if they will keep their cattle from actual contact with these Texas cattle, from grazing in the same pastures, drinking from the same pond, and in case of running water to keep these cattle from drinking at a stream from which they drink above, there will be little or no danger from them.

NEW YORK, August 28.

THE MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

President Johnson has every reason to be gratified with the popular ovation which is being extended to him by the people of the commercial emporium while I write this. As far as the eye can reach up Broadway for miles dense masses of men, and women, and children are assembled, and as the President passes along shout after shout rises upon the air to give token that Andrew Johnson is everywhere recognized as the man of the people. Perhaps the enthusiasm would be still greater, but for the presence of Secretaries Seward and Stanton, two personages which New York has no particular reason to honor with an ovation of any sort. However, the feeling seems to be, among the great body of the Democracy, that if we cannot have everything our own way it is a wise philosophy to take the good with the bad with as little complaint as possible. I need not go into the details of the reception, as the telegraph no doubt will post you up long before this reaches the Democrat office. Unlike the "scurvy politicians" who constitute the city councils of Philadelphia, our corporation not only took upon themselves the responsibility of a grand public reception, but at the same time adopted resolutions sustaining the President's policy of reconstruction. There are some six or seven "red legs" in the Board of Aldermen and Board of Councilmen, and these made a good many wry faces over it, but they had to swallow the medicine whether they liked it or not.

OFF WITH THEIR HEADS.

The very necessary work of removing Radicals from office, and appointing persons in their place upon whom the President can rely, has at length commenced in good earnest here and hereabout. In my last reference was made to the purgation of the New York customhouse by Collector Smythe, and now we have the removal of Postmaster Lincoln, of Brooklyn, to rejoice the Conservative heart. His successor is the editor of the Eagle Mr. Kinsella, a rank Democrat, of the Louisville Democrat persuasion. His predecessor, Lincoln, is what is known as a "red-leg" Republican, and the proper place for him and all like him, therefore, is not in public office, but in the parlors of the Loyal League clubs, or in the front pews of Parson Cheever's church. It is unnecessary to add that Mr. Kinsella will lose no time in lopping off the head of every subordinate Radical he can lay his hands on.

BISHOP GREEN, OF MISSISSIPPI,

Is among the latest arrivals in town. He comes to raise money in aid of the Episcopal Church of his diocese, one of the severest sufferers from the late war. It is pleasant to hear that he is meeting with a gratifying success. He does not appeal to the Episcopal Churches as such, but to churchmen in their individual capacity. Yesterday one large-hearted Christian presented him with a check for $1,000, and to-day another went and did likewise. The Bishop, on Sunday evening, preached an excellent sermon before a crowded congregation, at St. Ann's Church. His subject was "Prejudice"—a very appropriate theme, which was handled in such a way as must have come home, with much force, to the hearts and consciences of all who listened to him.

MATRIMONIAL AGENCIES.

Another attempt has just been made in this city to revive the abominable matrimonial agency business; but the police have made an effort to squelch it, by giving notice to the proprietor and proprietress that persistence in it would be followed by their arrest and consignment to the penitentiary. The warning, however, I am informed, has only had the effect of compelling it to retire from public gaze, not of suppressing it in private. The advertisements in the newspapers are withdrawn and the sign on the door-post is taken down, it is true, but the "business" is prosecuted all the same. A detective assures me that at least a dozen couples go in and out in the course of the day. The house is located in one of the most aristocratic streets in the city, and within full view of Grace Church, at the head of Broadway. The chief engineers of these houses of prostitution (for that is just what they are) are a set of needy and unprincipled lawyers, who make

THE PROCURING OF DIVORCES

For a small consideration as much of a "business" as that of joining hands and hearts together—over the left. These fellows are well known to the legal profession, but they are not permitted to practice in any of the courts and receive no countenance from respectable men anywhere. It is they, also, who advertise in the New York Herald, day after day, in this style:

A N ABSOLUTE DIVORCE OBTAINED IN any State, without publicity or exposure; no fee charged until divorce is granted. [illegible], Lawyer, [illegible] Nassau st., N. Y.

DIVORCES LEGALLY OBTAINED IN NEW York and other States without publicity or fee till divorce is granted; consultations free. Attorney and Counselor, [illegible] Nassau street.

Now, reader, put "the matrimonial agency," and these "divorce" advertisements together, and, unless you be as blind as a bat, you can scarcely fail to "see the point." If any woman is weak or foolish enough to go to the agency in pursuit of a husband, she may be provided with one at sight. But next day the husband will be certain to procure "an absolute divorce, without publicity or exposure," before his poor victim is aware of it. The two institutions are thus run on a common basis.

THE NEWSPAPERS AND THE CABLE.

Here's a bit of news you will not be likely to have even an inkling of in the city journals. The proprietors of the leading dailies, at an informal meeting last night, had a free talk about the revolution which the enormous expenses entailed by the cable were certain to work in the whole business of newspaper publication. The usual differences of opinion prevailed, but there was perfect unanimity on one point, and that was, the necessity of raising the price of newspapers and advertising. One of the speakers urged that the American people have all along been getting newspapers at a much cheaper rate than the people of any other country. They demanded the best the market could afford, at prices wholly unremunerative to those whose capital, enterprise and industry were involved. Another advised an advance to six cents, instead of four or five; but the majority were clearly of opinion that, if any increase at all was resolved upon, it ought to be double the existing rates. As I have said, however, this was an informal meeting, preliminary to others soon to be held for the purpose of definitive action. The movement for that matter, may ultimately assume the form of a general convention of newspaper proprietors, including the whole country, and not only New York.

BUSINESS AFFAIRS.

The importers and jobbers at last acknowledge that "trade is picking up." Persuaded that prices are to go no lower, the country merchants are hurrying up their purchases to go home as speedily as possible, in order to avoid exorbitant hotel bills, which "eat up the profits" without mercy. Not only are the dry-goods dealers as busy as they want to be, but the hardware, the boot and shoe, the drugs and medicine and the wholesale grocery houses likewise have a large increase of orders from the South and Southwest. Buyers from the latter section are purchasing largely, and mostly for cash, or on very short time. The former are free purchasers too, but, alas, their cash operations, like angel visits, are few and far between, while long credits are what one and all of them plead for with most earnestness. Yet, so far as my inquiries have extended, it is but just to add, this pleading is rarely in vain, the disposition on the part of the New York merchants being to deal with their customers from that region with the utmost liberality and kindness.

THE CHOLERA.

There is hardly enough of this article left in the city to make an item of. The whole number of deaths placed to its credit last week was 174. This week, so far, the deaths have averaged about ten per day, and the cases some eighteen, including those in the various public institutions. The Board of Health has spent, since May last, $130,000. That is rather heavy for the tax-payers; but an emollient is offered them in the reflection that but for the outlay the pestilence would have decimated the metropolis. "Perhaps it mought, and then perhaps it moughtn't."

HEMLOCK LAKE, N. Y., August 19.

Messrs. Editors: I owe you an apology for my remissness and seeming neglect of you; but, having been entranced, intoxicated as it were, with the exquisite beauties of nature that surround me, and carried by enthusiasm into the seventh heaven of bliss, I have felt as if it was a great condescension to write a letter; yes, almost an insult to nature to turn aside an instant from the glorious panorama of hill and valley, lake and stream, and, with pen in hand, vainly essay a description of the scenery around me. However, if you will be contented with quite a brief epistle, I shall endeavor to please you. I am away up among the mountains, snugly ensconced in one of the best hotels it has ever been my good fortune to meet with—the Metropolitan Hotel, kept by Mr. D. Hanchett, an excellent landlord and a perfect gentleman. The hotel is just one mile from the lake, and there are always horses and buggies at the disposal of the guests, so, whenever we desire a trip to that delightful spot, we have every facility for reaching there in a short time, and, in fact, the lake is accessible to those more robust, who prefer riding the nag you have so often heard of, belonging to somebody by the name of "Shanks!" Hemlock Lake is one of a chain of lakes that lie in the northeastern part of New York State. It is a magnificent sheet of water, clear as crystal, seven miles in extent, and in some places one mile and a quarter wide. It is sweetly nestled at the feet of juvenile mountains, whose sides are densely covered with trees of several kinds, all clothed in the greenest and freshest of foliage down to the water's edge. The most exquisite ferns and rarest of wild flowers droop and lave in the pure water, whose tiny wavelets ever and anon meet them with a kiss. The first time I gazed upon this beautiful lake, I could scarcely repress a scream of delight, so surpassingly grand was the sight before me. I spent all day yesterday upon the lake, in company with a fishing party. What a glorious time we had. About ten o'clock the wind became quite boisterous, tossing our boat about like a feather; large waves danced and pranced gaily around us, bowing their white-capped heads, and saluting us; while Boreas grew more and more furious, as if indignant at our encroaching upon these beautiful waters—belonging exclusively to Dame Nature, who also scowled malignantly upon us. Finally we concluded to land and suspend fishing until after dinner. We found a "sylvan bower," and commenced forthwith to dine; for I for one agreed with Owen Meredith that "He may live without books—what is knowledge but grieving?

He may live without hope—what is hope but deceiving?
He may live without love—what is passion but pining?
But where is the man that can live without dining?"

After our rural feast was concluded we wandered forth in quest of a spring. We were fortunate enough to find one very close to us. By-the-by, this country seems to abound in springs, brooks and creeks; "water, water, everywhere," and plenty of it to drink. One of our party clambered to the top of a high hill, and shouted to me that there were magnificent ferns growing in great abundance there. Now, having an indomitable passion for ferns, and being desirous of obtaining some, I resolved to climb the hill and get them. "Ambition fired my soul;" I struggled bravely on; they were in sight; I beheld their graceful plumes nodding before me, when lo! a "treacherous sliver broke," and, with unparalleled velocity, I took an impromptu slide, greatly to my astonishment and disgust; and, in a great deal shorter time than it took to mount the hill, I found myself at a "stand-still," within a few feet of the lake. [Mem.—Never trust to stout-looking twigs to aid in ascending a hill, and lay to heart the old adage, "appearances are deceitful."] I made another attempt at a different place, had another tumble, but I got my ferns. We returned to the boat, rowed out, and, anchoring in deep water, proceeded to entice some of the tinny tribe from their resting-places. After due watching I saw my cork disappear; what an exciting moment! I pulled away heartily, thinking I had at length "tempted a monster from the briny deep;" with a shout of exultation I gave a final jerk. Mercy on us! it was not a fish—only an ugly, black weed, whose length seemed interminable. After several ineffectual attempts, I concluded to cast aside my fishing rod, and engage in that laziest of all lazy sports, trolling for pickerel. Gracefully (?) reclining, with my hand almost touching the water, tightly holding the line, and idly watching the "spoon-hook" as it glittered and danced near the surface, thoughtlessly shouting as a noble old pickerel would glide swiftly up to the hook, thereby frightening him away, musing and dreaming, imagining I was in a fairy shallop, gliding gently down a magic stream to fresh scenes of enchantment, the hours passed swiftly by, and I was amazed when, looking up, I perceived that the sun was preparing for his nightly couch, rapidly gathering his gorgeous robes around him ere he took his departure, beckoning on the truant sunbeams, who were playfully dallying with the dancing ripples, and glinting with glory the beauteous bosom of the lake, whose surface was now dotted over with innumerable little boats, containing gay parties of ladies and gentlemen, all busily "trolling." The dimness of eve was closing o'er the valleys, the sun had left his good-night kiss upon the hill-tops, when we moored our boat, and, behind a noble span of gray horses, were whirled swiftly onward to the Metropolitan, where a most substantial and luxurious supper awaited us.

"Thus left to its own desolation,
The lake, from whose glimmering limbs the last
Transient pomps of the pageant of sunset had past,
Drew into its bosom the darkness, and only
Admitted within it one image—a lonely
And tremulous phantom of flickering light,
That followed the mystical moon thro' the night."

I wish I could persuade all my friends to come to this delightful spot next summer. I am sure they would never regret it. It is easily reached from Louisville. Take the mailboat to Cincinnati, connecting there with the Erie railway, then with the Buffalo branch of the Erie road, stopping at Livonia Station, where stages connect to carry passengers to Hemlock lake—two hours' ride. The Metropolitan hotel has accommodations for upwards of one hundred and fifty guests—nice rooms, many of them with private parlor attached; luxurious beds; splendid fare, and one of the kindest and most affable of landlords. The woods abound with game; the lake and streams with fish, viz: pickerel, trout, bass, etc., etc. The scenery is superb; and, moreover, there is a large ball-room in the hotel; music obtainable whenever desired; the nicest of little boats moored in a miniature lake before the house, formed by a large mill-dam backing up the waters from the outlet of Hemlock Lake, at the disposal of guests; and, in fact, it seems to me, everything that mortal could wish for. It will be with regret that I leave here to-morrow, but I am determined, if nothing happens to prevent, that I will return here next summer.

I will write to you from my next stopping place. Hastily, E. M. S.

Barren County Items.

—Our sprightly cotemporary, the Glasgow Times, affords us a fine melange of local matters in that delightful, yet unreconstructed section of Kentucky. We condense for the sake of beauty:

—Half-dozen soldiers have reached Glasgow to guard the town. The cornet band gave Wilson Thompson a serenade last Saturday night, and, like the Christian and philosopher that he is, he set out the delicacies, including "apple jack." The races commence on September 5th. The horses attached to Murrell & Jordan's stage, between Glasgow and Burksville, affrighted Monday morning last, ran off, upsetting the stage, and severely injuring the driver, Mr. George Seaver. There was but one passenger in the stage, Mr. J. Roberts, who escaped unhurt.

—Nick Piper is in the county jail, suspected of having extracted a sum of money from the money drawer of Nuckols & Bro.

—Peter G. Wooten has left for Kansas to reside there permanently. It is suggested that gentlemen who attend the Glasgow races with stock, on the 5th of September, should remain until the fair and exhibit the same, for which liberal premiums are offered.

—A rencounter occurred at the Concord meeting-house, in Barren county, between two boys, Master Martin and Wood, in which the former was dangerously stabbed.

In a Strange Land.

To the memory of Col. BUCKNER BOARD, who died in [illegible], these lines are lovingly inscribed.

Close the door softly, breathe his name gently,
Speak to him tenderly, for Death is there!
Mark the low breathing, the bosom upheaving;
List the low sighing for hopes fast fading.
Open the shutter, draw back the curtain,
Lift him up higher, let the breeze fan his brow
Who shall tell him his hopeless condition—
That ere another sun shall set
His spirit by angels will be met
And guarded up to Heaven?
No loved one to kiss him, no darling one near;
Then breathe it to him softly—surely Pity is there!
Yes, pity is there, and gently she murmured
"Ere to-morrow thou'lt be numbered
With those gone before!"
No sign of emotion, but calm resignation
And holy submission o'erspreads that brow.
"Hast thou not a message, a token to send
To those lonely ones watching
In thy [illegible] Kentucky home?"
The burst the strong heart, and tears that gathered
Rolled o'er the cheek furrowed by time and care.
He closed his eyes sadly, his thoughts wandered wildly
To the eve he kissed them so lightly "good-bye" at the door,
He sees them all—the wife, loved so tenderly;
The daughters, light and happy,
And [illegible], his [illegible] and his [illegible].
As the sun low was sinking, the dying man, thinking
Of wife, daughters and son, softly murmured,
"Thy will be done!"
Then, folding his hands meekly,
He fell to sleep sweetly, just at sunsetting,
In a strange land!

* * * * * * * *

Lower the coffin slowly; will not Love drop a tear
O'er the stranger's dark bier? Nay, but Pity is there!
Carried by lightning came the sad tidings,
Loving hearts crushing in their home so dreary;
Then came a letter by Pity 'twas written
[illegible]
O, peerless treasure, embalmed by our tears,
We'll keep thee and cherish thee through time's long years.
Before the throne, bowed meekly,
A heart-broken one prays, "Our Father in Heaven"—
Two Fathers in Heaven—"to guide and protect;"
Then bowed her head lower and wept.
"Kind Father, oh blessings we pray
On unknown friends far away,
Who nursed him so tenderly just at sunsetting,
In that distant Southern land;
And help us humbly to say,
"Thy will, Oh, God, be done!"

The Fenian Call.

BY FRANK WYLDE.

Heard you that wail from o'er the sea?
'Tis Ireland yearning to be free;
From ruthless grasp of despot's hand,
From thraldom strive to free their land.
Up, men! awake! espouse the right!
Gird on the buckler for the fight;
Sharp whet your sword; your watchword be—
Emmet our slain, and Ireland free!

Know ye that valiant Irishmen
To-day doth wear the felon's chain,
Because they would not bend the knee,
Nor bare the head to royalty?
And many more, like beasts of prey,
Are hunted down both night and day.
Your fathers, too, are in a cell,
Because the truth they dared to tell.

But rest assured we shall not fail
To wring from England's heart a wail,
And cause her to lament the hour
She mocked in scorn at Ireland's power.
The Celt, who long has been a slave,
Now strikes for freedom or the grave;
Poor though he be, the Saxon foe
Shall soon have cause to dread his blow.

MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

At Home and Abroad.

PUNCHERS.—Now that the theater season is fairly opened, we hope that young men will have the good manners and gentlemanly breeding to abolish the old and disgusting habit of "punching" each other out of their seats during performances, or any other time. Young ladies should not countenance any young man who would take her to the theater and leave her. No gentleman will punch another out of his seat, and he would be much less a gentleman who would leave the lady he took there. Stop it. It is disgraceful.

—The Odd Fellows' Hall has recently undergone a thorough overhauling and refitting, and is now open to concerts, balls, exhibitions, &c. It is now called Concordia Hall.

—Palmer's Great Western Circus and Hippodrome will enter our city to-morrow, and pitch tents on the corner of Walnut and East streets. They will remain Tuesday and Wednesday, giving an exhibition each afternoon and night. It is a mammoth concern, and one of the best in this country. Everybody must go. They performed in Jeffersonville yesterday, and will perform in New Albany Thursday. Look out for them.

—A party of minstrels have been giving entertainments in the Turners' Hall, on Jefferson street above Preston.

PHILHARMONIC.—A new musical society has been organized under this title, of which Mr. D. P. Faulds is President. Among the executives of the society we notice the names of H. J. Peters, G. T. Bergman, H. C. Bishop, Louis Hast, and many other excellent professional and amateur musicians and vocalists. We wish the Philharmonic success.

—The Children's Park, under the management of Mr. Bauer, was liberally patronized last week. It is kept in fine order, and is a pleasant retreat for children.

—Mr. Will S. Hays, of this city, is composing two new songs for the piano—Shamus O'Brien—a companion to Nora O'Neil—and Write Me a Letter from Home. Messrs. J. L. Peters & Bro., St. Louis, will publish them.

MISCELLANEOUS.

—The following places of amusement are now open, or will be, shortly, in the city of New York, this season: New Broadway Theater, New French Theater, Niblo's Garden, Winter Garden, Wallack's Theater, Olympic Theater, Wood's Theater, New Bowery Theater, Fox's Old Bowery, Thalia Theater, New York Theater, French Theater, San Francisco Minstrels, Madame Ristori and her troupe, Barnum's Museum, Tony Pastor's Opera House, Terrace Garden Concerts; besides the above there will be many circuses, minstrel troupes, &c. New York is a live "little village."

—Miss Mary Shaw has been engaged for Wood's Theater this month.

—The Academy of Music, Cleveland, will open on the 10th inst.

—Ettie German and O. S. Fawcett were playing at Lancaster, Pa., last week.

—The new Chestnut-street Theater in Philadelphia opens for the season to-morrow night.

—The Theater at Pittsburg opened Friday night.

—Armstrong's Combination Troupe were at Canandaigua last week.

—The Academy of Music at Albany to-morrow night.

—The St. Louis Theater is under full headway. Drake is there.

—Barton Hill has been succeeded at the Theater Royal, Montreal, by Miss Lucy Rushton.

—The Holman Opera Troupe were at Alton, Ill., last week.

—Edwin Booth played Hamlet at the Boston Theater on the 27th ult.

—The Worrell Sisters and Mr. Donnelly commence at the American, Philadelphia, on Monday night.

—The Front-street Theater, Baltimore, was opened by Mr. Ford on the 20th, with the Fowler Sisters in the "Ice Witch."

—Miss Lotta commences an engagement in Cincinnati to-morrow night.

—Mrs. E. Potter is playing at Virginia City, Nevada Territory.

—The Ravels were doing a big business in Buffalo last week.

—Rachel Johnson and B. Macauley were playing at Young Men's Hall, Detroit, last week.

—Sherry's Dramatic Company were at Erie, Pa., last week.

—Greenlaw's Opera House, in Memphis, will open on the 15th inst., under the management of Mr. Frank Tanneyhill. Thompson is manager of the New Memphis theater.

—Miss Lula Blanche McCullough promises to be the next bright particular star in this country. She is young, pretty and intelligent.

—The Webb sisters have been playing York. They play a few nights in Brooklyn, and come West.

—The new theater at Nashville is doing a good business.

—Adah Isaacs Menken (the Benicia girl) has gone to Europe to show herself.

—Miss Henriques has arrived in this country.

—Mr. W. J. Florence has arrived in New York by the Persia. He brings with him several new plays for Mrs. Florence and himself. They appear Wednesday at the Arch-street theater, Philadelphia.

—Matilda Heron has a new play, which she will introduce this season, and which, report says, is fine.

—Kate Reignolds commences an engagement at the Boston Museum on the 7th inst.

—The Boston theater opened last Monday night, with Frank Mayo and Mrs. Agnes Perry as stars.

—Laura Keene has written a comedy called "New York Society, or the Days We Live In." She is residing on her beautiful farm, near New Bedford, New York. She will enter upon her tour West and South shortly.

—B. Dawison, the distinguished German tragedian, has arrived in New York.

—Quite a number of foreign actors, actresses and danseuses, have arrived in New York, during the past month.

—Maggie Mitchell commences her season at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, with "Little Barefoot," on the 7th instant.

—Miss Bateman's engagements this season will take her into every city and town of note in this country.

—Mrs. Chanfrau and Davenport go to the Varieties, New Orleans, this season.

—Chas. Dillon's engagement has closed in Cincinnati. He goes to the Broadway, New York.

—Harry Hays and wife, distinguished foreign vocalists, are expected "over the say." They will "star" it through this country.

—Harry Leslie is in Baltimore, Md., and has been engaged to appear at the great German Schuetzen Carnival, to be held upon the grounds of the association a short distance from the city, on the Belair road, which lasts for five days, commencing on Aug. 27th.

—Annette Ince commences her starring tour on the 3d inst., at the Academy of Music, Pittsburg, Pa.

—The Arch-street Theater, Philadelphia, opens for the season on the 3d inst., with "The Favorite of Fortune," the successful London piece.

—Forrest continued at the Geyser's, Cal., at last accounts, and his health was rapidly improving.

—Amy Stone's Sensation Dramatic Company appear in Music Hall, New Haven, Conn., Aug. 31 and Sept. 1.

—Henry Luhde, a German musician, committed suicide on Aug. 21st. His remains were found floating in the water near the Hamburg docks, Jersey City, on the 21th. Luhde was one of the best performers on the violoncello in the country, and traveled with Jullien through Europe for fourteen years. He was forty years of age.

—The new theater at Nashville was opened a few nights since with "East Lynne," with Miss Price as the "star." Frank Angelo leads the orchestra.

—The Olympic Theater, St. Louis, was opened for the fall and winter season on the 3d inst., with the following stock company: Mrs. G. Farren, Bella Golden, Mrs. D. Hanchett, Miss Fanny Combs, Mrs. E. Cole, Mrs. Slevin, Miss Annie Ward, Miss Laura A. Carter, Miss Anna Mack, Senorita Maria, Mrs. S. J. Herndon, Mrs. J. M. Davis, Mr. W. E. Sheridan, Martin Golden, Sol Smith, Jr., T. J. Herndon, J. Slevin, S. Drake, C. T. Murphy, J. M. Bryce, J. S. Marble, C. R. Howard, F. A. Rose, W. H. Lewellyn.

NEGRO MINSTRELSY.

—Hooley is doing a big business at the Brooklyn Opera House.

—Seaver's Opera House, at Williamsburg, L. I., will be opened to-morrow night with a first-class company of performers, including the names of Eph Horn, Wash Norton, Johnny Allen, J. K. Campbell, Johnny Queen, J. A. Herman, R. Isaacs, H. Isaacs, Fred Bowen, G. H. Frazier, M. Riley, F. J. St. Clair, Fred Barker, C. Paunfelt, G. Moberig, J. J. Hilliard, and Geo. H. Coes.

—Newcomb & Arlington's Minstrels played in Zanesville, O., on Friday night. They cleared $1100 in Columbus, O., in two nights.

—The Georgia Minstrels are sailing around up North—Rhode Island.

—Duprez and Benedict's Minstrels closed in Nashville on August 24th, when they left for Memphis for four days. On the 3d inst. the party open in New Orleans for six weeks, at the St. Charles Theater.

—Morris and Wilson's Minstrels reopened in St. Louis, at their opera-house, on the 1st inst.

—The minstrel party connected with Bailey's Circus consists of James Wambold, Alphonse Williams, Larry Tooley, Herr Bergeman, Robert Ellingham, Rollin Howard, Harry Everetts, Nellie Huntley, Carlos Curtze and Clara Birch.

—W. Pearson Collins, late of Christy's Minstrels, after an absence of nine years in Europe, arrived in Pittsburg, Pa., the city of his birth, on August 18th, and met with a cordial welcome from his hosts of friends. Mr. Collins, seven weeks ago, arrived in London from a tour embracing India, China, Japan, Burmah, Java and the Australian Colonies, and since his absence from the United States has visited professionally all the chief kingdoms of Europe. We understand that a supper will be given to him by his friends in a few days. Mr. C. comes to this country, we are informed, to receive a legacy left him by his father, and will return to England in a few weeks.

—J. Sanderson has remodeled Temperance Temple, Baltimore, for a first-class minstrel hall at $4,000 expense. It will be called Sanderson's Opera-house.

CIRCUSES.

—Palmer's Western Circus play in Indianapolis on the 23d, 24th and 25th.

—Stone, Rosston & Murray's Circus, owing to the low river, did not show in Memphis on the 10th. Their stay at Memphis was but three days—August 13th, 14th and 15th. A correspondent says: They did an excellent business, and could have done as well for a week longer, as their performances gave perfect satisfaction. The managers have a strong hold upon the public of this city, in consequence of their liberality in giving two benefits (the entire receipts) to the sick and disabled soldiers here, last spring; also for the respectable manner in which their show was put before the public, as well as for the gentlemanly behavior of the entire troupe, both in and out of the ring. Frank Rosston has sold out his interest in the concern, in consequence of ill health, and has gone to Philadelphia. The company left on the morning of August 16th, for Brownsville, Tenn., and were at Denmark on the 17th; Jackson, 18th; Humboldt, 20th; Trenton, 21st, thence to Nashville. They go thence to Louisville, where they will re-organize for another Southern tour.

—Yankee Robinson's circus and menagerie are out West.

—Haight & Chambers' circus pitches tent at Baltimore on the 30th inst.

—Metcalfe's circus showed in Nebraska City, on August 16th and 17th.

—John Holland has left Mike Lipman's circus and joined Lake's.

A YOUNG GYMNAST.—Mrs. James De Mott gave birth to a male child, on August 22d, at Charley Noyes' house, Girard, Pa. At last accounts mother and "kid" were lively.

—Frank Ulfner has left the Dan Rice show and started with his side show, to follow up the fairs. He has the Albino Family, fat girl and boy, giant boy and other curiosities.

THE PAY OF OFFICERS AND ENLISTED MEN OF THE ARMY.—The Paymaster General has issued a circular addressed to the Chief Paymaster, announcing that the President's proclamation of the 20th inst. does not in any way affect the pay of officers and enlisted men of the United States army. It was believed by many that the placing of the army on a peace basis would necessitate a return to the rates paid to the army before the breaking out of the war. The Paymaster General has, however, decided differently.

A SMITH (STON) EAN INSTITUTE.—Mr. A. C. Smith and Miss Jennie Stone, of Versailles, Woodford county, Kentucky, concluded to become one, contrary to the objections of parents; went to Cincinnati, called at the Burnet House, and were married. We presume they are happy. If they are not, it is their own fault.

THE HOME CIRCLE.

The Sheep and the Lambs.

If sheep so greatly need
 The shepherd's watchful care,
Lambs would be desolate indeed
 If they forsaken were.

They know not where to go,
 Unless he leads them on,
Know not where sweetest herbs do grow,
 Or clearest waters run.

None but the shepherd's arm
 His little lambs can keep
From every danger and alarm,
 That might dismay the sheep.

When in his arms they lie,
 Then only are they strong;
Or when they feed, beneath his eye,
 Amid the fleecy throng.

Thou art the shepherd, Lord,
 And I thy little lamb,
I'm safe if Thou thy help afford,
 However weak I am.

The Ship's Chart.

"Ellen! Ellen! Look here! See my new ship! Isn't it splendid?" shouted little Charlie Carter, running into the room where his sister was sitting, sewing.

"Oh, dear! not quite so loud," said Ellen, smiling. "Bring your ship here and let me examine it."

Charlie's eyes sparkled as he handed her the ship; for he knew that Ellen would fully appreciate what gave him so much pleasure; and he began to tell the names of the different parts of this very perfect model of a ship. Ellen listened very attentively.

"Now, sister," said Charlie, when he had finished his explanations, "when I am a little older, I mean to go to sea in a big ship. Tom Jones says that boys not more than fifteen or sixteen years old often go. Mother will be willing, I know.

Ellen, who alway sought to instruct as well as to please her little brother, did not appear to notice what he had said about becoming a sailor. She began to ask him questions about his ship. "Did Tom Jones make this handsome ship on purpose for you, Charlie?" she asked.

"Yes, and it has taken him a long time; it is made so nicely. Isn't he very good?"

"He is certainly very kind," replied Ellen: but do you think he is really good?"

Charlie hung down his head; "I am afraid not," he replied.

"What makes you think so?" asked Ellen.

"He swore when he was talking about his last voyage," said Charlie, in a low tone.

"But then, Ellen," he added, "Tom is not so much to blame, after all; for he says they never had any Sabbath on his ship, only to put on clean clothes. There was no one to tell them about God; and that makes a difference, you know."

"Yes; I know that it makes a difference. Poor Tom is not so guilty for swearing as my little brother Charlie would be, who has had so much christian instruction all his life; but I think even Tom knows better, don't he?"

"I don't know. I suppose he does not think much about such things. He has been a sailor all his life," said Charlie.

"Yet my little brother Charlie wants to be a sailor, and go among people who swear and who do not regard God's holy day. Are his principles strong enough to make him always do right in such a place?"

"Why, Ellen, you talk as if it was really wicked to be a sailor. Some of the ships have christian captains and crews, and you know christian sailors can do a great deal of good when they visit heathen countries. I do not see why sailors cannot be just as good as other people."

"So they can be: so they are, sometimes, no doubt," replied Ellen; "and God would keep you from sin also, if it should become your duty to go to sea, and you should go earnestly seeking His guidance and protection. But poor Tom is not so good as he ought to be; and the first question now is, can you, a little boy, educated by christian parents, do anything to show Tom how wicked it is not to love Jesus, who died for him?"

Charlie looked very thoughtful and serious when his sister said this. He had not thought little boys had any such duties to do. When he heard Tom swear, he wished some man would tell him it was wrong, but he never thought he ought to do it.

"What did you call that piece of wood at the stern of your ship, which looks something like a paddle?" asked Ellen.

"That is a rudder," answered Charlie, brightening up.

"A rudder. What is it used for?"

"Why, Ellen, don't you know?" that is the thing which steers the ship. Nobody knows where a boat would go without a rudder."

"But in the night, or when they are out of sight of land, how do they know which way to steer?" asked Ellen.

"Why, Tom says they have a good compass, and a chart of the sea, with every shoal and island and reef of rocks put down on it: so they know just how to steer, if it is ever so dark, and even in a storm."

"But suppose a great reef of rocks should be laid down on the chart, and the only way to escape them was to steer as far as possible to the south, yet the man who was steering the ship should say he did not believe there were any rocks, and should so steer to the north; what then?" asked Ellen.

"Why, the ship would strike against the rocks and be lost," replied Charlie.

"But no sailor would do such a thing as that; for he knows that the chart is true, and all the rocks and islands are really there, just as they are put down."

"Can you think of anything which is a guide for our life, as the chart is for the ship?" asked Ellen.

"Do you mean the Bible?" said Charlie, after thinking a moment.

"Yes; all the dangerous shoals and rocks and whirlpools of life are laid down in that blessed chart; and the right track is also marked down so plain, that even a little boy can steer his ship right. Conscience, lighted by the lamp of the Holy Spirit, is the compass; a person's own will is the man at the wheel; and principles, either good or bad, form the rudder. Now, suppose the man at the wheel says the chart is not right, and steers the ship in the wrong direction will it not surely be wrecked? You know, when the ship is going into a port where the captain has never been before, some time before he gets to port, he takes on board a pilot, who knows all about the harbor, and can steer the vessel safely. Jesus is the pilot of the soul's ship sailing over the sea of life.

"Don't you think it is time for you and Tom to receive Him on board? You may be nearer the port of eternity than you imagine. At least, it is the part of wisdom to be on the safe side. The pilot-boat has been 'close alongside' for some time, and the pilot stands there all ready to obey your first signal.

"Charlie, will you tell this to Tom, and will you and he take the pilot Jesus on board your ships for life? Then it will be safe for you to sail just in the course which He points out on that Chart which the Great Captain has given."

"Thank you, sister Ellen. I must go now and show mother my new ship. I think, Mr. Ship, you will be quite a useful plaything, if you make me remember about Jesus," said Charlie, as he went to his mother's room to show his pretty gift to the rest of the family.—[Child's Own Magazine.

Lending A Half-crown.

Arthur Johnson had a half-crown which he wished to give to a poor woman. His father gave it to him for watching sheep; and told him he must not spend it, but put it out at interest, or trade with it so as to make something by it. He knew his father would not let him give it away; for he was not a true christian, and thought of little else than of making and saving money. Arthur's mother died when he was an infant, but with her last breath she gave him to God.

When Arthur was five years old, he was sent to school to a pious teacher, who cared for his soul; and knowing that he had no teacher at home, she took unusual pains to instruct him in the principles of religious truth. The Holy Spirit blessed her efforts; and, before he was eight years of age, there was reason to hope that he had been born again of God.

Arthur was now in his tenth year. He considered how he could help a poor widow; and at length he hit upon the plan which proved successful.

His father was very desirous that he should begin to act for himself in business matters, such as making bargains. He did not wish him to ask his advice in so doing, but to go by his own judgment. After the business was done, he would show whether it was wise or not, but never censure him, lest he should discourage him from acting on his own responsibility.

In view of these facts, Arthur formed his plan.

"Father, may I lend my half-crown?"

"To some spendthrift boy."

"I won't lend it without good security."

The father was pleased that the son had the idea of good security in his head; he would not inquire what it was for he wished Arthur to decide for himself. He told him to lend it, but be careful not to lose it.

"I'll be sure about that," said Arthur.

Arthur took his half-crown and ran to the poor widow, and gave it to her before she had time to thank him.

At night his father asked him if he had put out his money.

"Yes, sir," said Arthur.

"Whom did you lend it to?"

"I gave it to a poor starving widow, in one of Mr. Harvey's houses."

There was a frown gathering on his father's brow as he said, "Do you call that lending? Did you not ask my permission to lend it? Have I a son that will deceive me?"

"No, sir," said Arthur; "I did lend it." He opened his Bible, that he had ready, with his finger on the place: "He that hath pity upon the poor, lendeth to the

"Lent it to the Lord! Will he ever pay you?"

"Yes, father, he will; it says that he will pay me again."

"I thought you had more sense," said his father. But this was not said in an angry tone. The truth was, the old man was pleased with the ingenuity, as he called it of the boy. He did not wish to discourage that, so he took out his purse and handed Arthur another half-crown. "Here! the Lord will never pay you; I must, or you will never see your money again."

"Thank you, sir," said Arthur. "Well," said he to himself, "the Lord has paid me—much sooner than I expected, too. I hardly expected He would pay me in money. The hearts of all men are in His hand, and the gold and silver are His; He has disposed my father to pay it to me. I'll lend again to the Lord."

He did. But he always did one thing first. He always thought about what he was going to do, and prayed the Lord to direct him. When his father saw that he did not part with his money in buying things that were of little or no use, or lend it to a spendthrift boy, but used it either in buying good books for himself, or in relieving those that were in real distress, he said no more to him, but began to think that Arthur would grow up to be a wiser and a better man than he had been.

A Minister's Wife.

Somebody in the West not finding in the Scriptures any statement of the qualifications and duties of the wives of ministers, thinks that recourse must be had to "the other rule of faith and practice, public opinion; from which," the writer says, "we learn that a minister's wife must be,

"1. Like Mary, always sitting at the feet of Jesus, in possession of the one thing needful, regardless of every worldly interest.

"2. Like Martha, she should do all the serving, yet without being incumbered by it.

"3. She should be a little more prompt than Sarah of old, and have refreshments always ready for those traveling angels whose visits at the minister's house are not 'few and far between.'

"4. Like Dorcas, she should 'keep constantly on hand a supply of ready-made clothing to bestow upon all the poor saints and sinners in the community where she resides, with a spare box for the beneficiaries in college, and the servants who have escaped from the blessings of the 'patriarchal institution.'

"5 Like the prophetess, Anna, she should not depart from the temple, day or night,' for the multiplied meetings of the church and benevolent societies require an almost constant attendance in the sanctuary, and it is the duty of the minister's wife to attend to them all.

"6. Like the widow of Sarepta, she must have the art of using meal out of one barrel, and oil out of one cruse, the year round, without diminishing the quantity.

"Lastly, she must be apt to please everybody—'becoming all things to all men,' women and children—grave or gay, refined or rude, intelligent or ignorant, affable or reserved, as suits the company in which she may chance to fall."

Upon these conclusions are based the following

REMARKS.

"1. We believe that it is the duty of churches to set apart young women, and educate them for ministers' wives.

"2. When a church is about to call a pastor, they should appoint a special committee to visit his wife, and ascertain whether she is able or willing to perform the labor of five ordinary women, without any compensation except the crumbs which fall from her master's (husband's) table.

"3. A minister's wife should be always at home, and always abroad; always serving God, and always serving tables."

Woman.

It has become the tenor of the times to praise the beauty of woman; and, to personate her charms, all the frail, ethereal types of loveliness are called into requisition. Accustomed to be compared with the summer rose, the flitting bird and the floating zephyr, is it any wonder that to deck herself in the colors of the rainbow, float a while through the mazes of fashion, and die like the butterfly that sports on a summer day, should be the history of so many women? Man's ambition is fired by high plaudits upon every mental and moral achievement; a woman's highest aspiration is too often satisfied when her name goes abroad as "one of our most beautiful and fashionable ladies." A deep thinker, a sound reasoner, a great reader, a metaphysician—these are terms of opprobrium, and would secure her plenty of space in society. A strong-minded woman is a cloud in the social circle; not being able to chatter small talk and laugh musically at proper intervals.

But, in these days of fashion and tinsel, the domestic woman is by far the rarest specimen—such an one as finds her Eden in her home and makes her home an Eden for all its inmates. How sad a change since the dear old times the heart of childhood could better tell had it language to picture its griefs! Oh! the beautiful dream of childhood, watched by a mother's eye, fostered by a mother's hand, rocked to sleep on a mother's breast! For the honor of womanhood and motherhood, let us take our children out of the hands of the hired domestic, and in our own nursery we will find the sunshine God designed us; and 'twill better warm our hearts than the light of all the gilded halls of fashion. Away with the trappings in which we are wont to parade ourselves before the crowd, and challenge the admiration of the worthless. Our home is our world—the pure domestic affections will make us rich without alloy, and lead us heavenward. Let woman be the ruling spirit in her home as an helpmate—for God made her to be such—ministering with her own hands to the wants of those she loves, and she will find the labor to be one of love—bringing with it a harvest of peace and comfort and sweet affection. As an economist, boarding with a frugal hand against the day of future want, and supplying the means of charity wherever her heart may dictate. As a teacher, setting the example of a meek and quiet spirit, with the gentle answer, turning away wrath, and disarming sorrow of its deepest sting, with the submission, "Thy will be done."

Let woman cull the flowers that bloom around her own door, and she will find them sparkling in the beauty of God's own handiwork. Let her entwine about her all home loves, and she will find them an Eden's bower. We are sick of the word "fashionable woman." Let us have domestic women; sensible women; Christian women, and there will be fewer crimes; fewer ruined fortunes; fewer blighted homes; fewer broken hearts. Society will then advance, not retrograde; religion will cover the earth like a garment; and human souls will be gathered into the garner of Christ.

So thinks AUNT RUTH.

Waifs from the Window-Sill.

BY SINE CURA.

In the twilight of life, when the stars of Heaven look out from behind their soft gray curtains, how softly in their noiseless rapidity steal upon us the associations of by-gone days. Like white-winged messengers from the spirit-land they come to whisper of friends that have vanished, of joys that have flown, and, ever upon the sands of to-day, they trace their record in gorgeous hues. Be the present e'er so happy, the past e'er so cheerless, yet down deep in the same sacred chamber, where memory guards the portals, the light of other days is shining with rays so reflected that the bright spots in the checkered past drown in their refulgence the somber shades that may have been woven in the web of fate; and, ever under the mysterious influence of our nature, a sigh goes out from the heart to pay its tribute at the shrine of by-gone hours. On rainbow pinions they come, bringing to us severed ties and forgotten associations. A word, a look, will sometimes bear us back to other scenes and other friends, when we find that affections which had long since burned out to dead gray ashes, have only been smothered into embers which need but a chance breath to fan them into former flame. Down the winding way of days gone by we stroll and sip the sweets from the flowers that blossom from the way-side. Into the distant chambers we wander and live again with the guests who have gathered there. We jest, we laugh, we revel in our poetic dream, but ere long the spell is broken and we awake to the prosy present to long

——"For the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still."

The past, though gone forever, leaves its memory and its associations to delude the while our vision like the streaks of loveliness which flush the horizon long after the dazzling orb, whose reflections they are, has descended from our view, or to play their charms upon our willing ear, like the low lingering echoes of mournful music when the deeper tones have died away.

Louisville City Court.

The court met at the usual hour yesterday morning. E. S. Craig was elected Judge pro tem. The following was the business transacted: The first case presented was that for fifteen negroes, male and female, and a white woman named Ann Truett, who is a notorious prostitute, for disorderly conduct at a ball given on the Point by the latter two negroes. The darkies names are Louisa Fairfax, [illegible] Rolston, Henry Page, H. Marshall, Jos. Weaver, John Armstrong, Wm. Varble, Henry Holton, Henry Tanner, Moses Taylor, Charles Shelton, James Mack, Samuel Dover, Newton Dover, Robert Grigsby and Reasor Dover. Judge Craig imposed a fine of $10 against each of them, held the negroes to bail in $200 for thirty days, and the white wench in a like amount for sixty days. The greater number went out to the workhouse.

John W. Rann and J. E. Otter were presented as suspected felons, and their case continued until Monday.

Henry Shumaker, who was once or twice before presented as a suspected felon and sent to the workhouse, was again presented on the charge. Henry is a carpenter by trade, but, owing to family troubles, he became dissipated and idle, and a common vagrant, without a home or visible means of support. He was held to bail in $100 and his own bond taken to answer any charge the grand jury may find against him.

Henry Talbott, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, had his examination postponed until next Friday.

John Suwoth, a buck negro, charged with drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was fined $[illegible].

Mary Burk, accused of having been disorderly, was fined $5, and her own bond in $100 taken to answer an indictment for keeping a disorderly house.

Isaac Smith, a negro, paid his fine, gave bail and was discharged from the workhouse; also an order entered to bring in from there, Lizzie Spillman, a negress.

John White was discharged from the workhouse, on payment of his fine.

Annie Shelton, stealing $100 from L. D. Sands; continued till Monday.

Patrick Flaherty, stealing boots from F. Kahut; $200 bail to answer.

Wm. Nelson, stealing iron, &c., from John W. Belknap; continued till Monday.

Richard Brooks, setting the stable of —— Swede on fire; continued till Tuesday.

Jas. Fairleigh, stealing cotton, &c., from Porter, Fairfax & Co.; on trial.

A PRESENTATION TO W. D. GALLAGHER, ESQ.—On yesterday the attaches of the custom house, Will. R. Hervey, Samuel Campbell, George D. Palmer, Edward Warren, and Joseph Bloomgart, presented W. D. Gallagher, Esq., who is about retiring from the office of Surveyor of Customs, with a splendid gold-headed cane. The inscription was: "Presented to W. D. Gallagher, Esq., by the employes of the U. S. Depository and Custom House." This was a very graceful compliment to a gentleman who is personally one of the most amiable and excellent of men—a poet of rare power and fancy, and a political writer of vigor and finish.

During the month of August, the letter carriers delivered 62,321 mail letters, and 6,374 city letters. This shows an increase over the number delivered in July of 12,700 letters. In addition to this there were 15,850 newspapers delivered. One carrier, whose route lays in the business portion of our city, delivered upwards of 18,000 letters. He, like several others, makes six trips a day, and yet the people of Louisville hesitate about the propriety of the carrier system, preferring to pay from six to ten dollars a year for box or drawer. The carrier system costs nothing and saves the interest on one hundred dollars. Other cities of the population of Louisville are much more cordial in support of the system. It might be adopted everywhere.

A MUSICAL PRODIGY COMING.—We are informed by Mr. Davidson, the gentlemanly Superintendent of Masonic Temple, that Master Richard Cokee, the wonderful boy soprano, will return from England with his suite early the present month. He purposes visiting Louisville in November, and will then give a series of concerts at the Temple.

"MUSCAT PERLE."—This is a new

Louisville Theater.

The Louisville opened last night to an overflowing audience of the beauty and fashion of the city. Mr. J. B. Adkins, a gentleman in the mercantile walks of life, but a great lover of the drama, delivered the "Ode to the Drama," when the curtain first went up, and acquitted himself most admirably. His voice is clear and resonant, and his enunciation is very distinct. The new company then appeared in the sterling old English comedy of London Assurance, and we think the whole audience, or at least all who were capable of judging, were agreeably surprised at the excellence of the acting. True, the management had promised us a No. 1 company; but managers so often fail to keep promises, you know, that we expected a company of the caliber of last season, and we now make our acknowledgements and return thanks. The part of Lady Gay Spanker was sustained by Miss Nellie Johnson, whose beauty and dash fairly captivated the audience. Miss Johnson has, added to great beauty of person, that peculiar talent which makes the finished actress. Dazzle was done by Mr. Dowd, whose voice is deep and sympathetic, and whose conception of the character was faultless. He will become a great favorite in Louisville. Sir Harcourt Courtly was done by Mr. Keller, the manager, and we need not say the part was excellently well done, as the experience of the former season has convinced everybody that Mr. Keller always plays correctly. Miss Dorgan sustained the character of Grace Harkaway, and she was so natural in her part that the mimic show assumed the realities of life. Miss Dorgan is possessed of rare beauty and grace, and her reading is very correct. She will grow in favor here. Miss Carrie Sheffield, the piquant, pert and beautiful chambermaid, did ample justice to the character of Pert, which she sustained. Though a little nervous at first, before a strange audience, she soon became self-possessed, and played the part to perfection. J. M. Dawson, whose entry was the signal for such a round of applause as should always greet an old favorite, played the part of Mark Meddle, as only Dawson can play it. Mr. Wm. Flemming sustained the character of Charles Courtly elegantly and gracefully. This young gentleman is possessed of much histrionic talent, that will develop itself this season. Dolly Spanker was well sustained by Mr. Pratt, who, if we mistake not, has a large current of fun running in his veins. Cool was sustained by Mr. Snyder, who, though young in the profession, gives great promise of future success; and Old Max, by Mr. Stout, was well played. The play was a decided success, and Manager Keller may well feel proud of his success in selecting his company, which, in our opinion, far excels any we have ever had in Louisville. The stars who play here this season will have to look to it, if they are not eclipsed by the stock. We now have the kind of players that our city is entitled to, and we feel confident the management will be rewarded by a liberal patronage. The singing and dancing of Miss Wesner was not by large odds the least pleasing entertainment of the evening. She will be an immense favorite in Louisville. Miss Graham acquitted herself splendidly in the farce. The orchestra showed its high cultivation and great merit, under the direction of Mr. Zoelter. We believe everybody was delighted with the new decorations and improvements in the auditorium; and the new act curtain, which is made to serve the double purpose of advertizer and drop, is quite a handsome embellishment. The artist, Mr. Blackburne, deserves great praise. Knowing the great advantages of such a medium of advertising, we were astonished to see that some of the places remain untaken. That, we apprehend, will not be for long, however, as business men are not apt to let such chances slip. The stage properties and machinery all seem to be new and elegant, and the artisans are justly entitled to their share of praise. We are delighted with everybody and everything about the Old Drury, and we promise ourselves much entertainment within her walls this season. On Monday night Mr. Keller produces Baccarat, the great sensation play that has been having, and still has, such an immense run in Philadelphia. We hope, before the week is over, to see the company in another sterling old comedy. Give us one, Mr. Keller. Your company is fully competent to present any you may select.

By the above it will be seen that since the last term 1[illegible] have been held over or committed. This, with the continued cases, will form a very heavy docket.

ORDINANCE WARRANTS.—The following ordinance warrants were disposed of: City vs. Mrs. Wheeler, befouling a pump on Main street; continued till Monday. City vs. Wm. Harris, same charge; same order. City vs. Chas. W. Kehlert, unlawfully digging and hauling away earth, gravel, &c., on Congress street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth; fined $5. City vs. C. Walter, throwing nauseous liquids on Clay street; continued till Tuesday. City vs. D. P. Mason, fast driving; dismissed at costs in one case, and fine of $5 confessed in another. City vs. Henry Denhardt, selling beer on Sunday; $5 fine confessed. City vs. J. H. H. Woodward, obstructing view of a street by a sign; continued till next Friday. City vs. Mr. Thomas, not keeping privy in good order; dismissed. City vs. John Dailey, permitting five geese to run at large; twenty-five cents fine in each case. City vs. Thos. P. Hare; same offense, eight geese; same fine. City vs. twenty-seven others, same offense; fine as before, twenty-five cents for each goose.

ANOTHER BASE BALL CLUB.—Several young gentlemen of the lower portion of the city have just organized a new base ball club, which they style the "Crescent." The following officers have been chosen: S. T. Newkirk, President; Geo. M. Perry, Vice President; Joseph White, Secretary; Edward Perry, Treasurer; Geo. Caswell, Wm. Randall, D. Butterfield, Directors.

OUR POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Arrests During the Month of August

Louisville, extending over a space of seven miles in length and over two miles in breadth, has a police force of but eighty-four men, including both day and night policemen. This force, considering its number and the large space over which they have to watch, are as efficient, if not more so, than the police of any other metropolis. That our readers may see the efficiency of our force, we give the following as the list of arrests during the month of August:

	Misdemeanors.	S. F.	Felony.
Cay-street	[illegible]	[illegible]	29
First-street	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Jail	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
Total	[illegible]	11	143

By the above it will be seen that the total number of arrests during the month were 470, or over 5½ to each member of the police force. The fines imposed against those arrested for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, amounted in the aggregate to $1,432, which amount goes towards defraying the expenses of the public schools.

Death of Col. Ruckstuhl.

Jacob G. Ruckstuhl, one of the most widely-known characters of our city, died suddenly yesterday and will be buried this afternoon. Col. Ruckstuhl was a native of Germany, where his father, a miller of considerable wealth, still lives. When quite young he emigrated to this country. In 1846 he enlisted in Capt. Pennington's company, Colonel Humphrey Marshall's regiment of Kentucky cavalry, and saw distinguished service during the Mexican war. At the eventful and hardly-contested battle of Buena Vista, Col. R. fought with pre-eminent bravery, and fell in the brilliant charge of Marshall, receiving seventeen severe wounds.

For several years after peace was established between Mexico and our country, Colonel Ruckstuhl was interpreter of the City Court and local reporter for the Anzeiger. During the late war he commanded for some time the Fourth Kentucky cavalry.

The deceased was a man of the most generous impulses, a true, loyal friend, and possessed of more than ordinary intellectual ability.

The Invitation to the President

It will be seen by the annexed correspondence that the proprietors of the Louisville Hotel have extended the hospitalities of their splendid establishment to the President and his suite:

To the Honorable Committee of the General Council on inviting President Johnson:

GENTLEMEN—We have the honor, through you, to offer the hospitalities of the Louisville Hotel to His Excellency, President Johnson and suite, in the event of their visiting the city.

Very respectfully,
Your ob't serv'ts,
M. KEAN & CO.

RESPONSE.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 1, 1866.

Messrs. M. Kean & Co.:

GENTLEMEN:—We have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your favor of the 31st ult., tendering the hospitalities of your excellent hotel to His Excellency President Johnson and suite.

In behalf of the General Council, we cordially accept your generous offer, and will advise you as to the occasion of the visit of our distinguished guests should they regard with favor our invitation to visit Louisville.

Very truly yours,
PHIL. T. GERMAN,
HENRY DENT,
JOHN G. BAXTER,
RO. F. BAIRD,
D. SPALDING, JR.

TOURNAMENT AT TUSCUMBIA, ALA.—In our previous notice of the grand tournament to take place at Tuscumbia, Alabama, on the 18th and 19th instant, we omitted to notice that in connection with Major Charles Semple, our knightly fellow townsman, Colonel James A. Burrell, had been honored with the office of Vice-President. We are not sufficiently familiar with these knightly entertainments to speak advisedly of the duties of their Vice Presidents: but this we may say, that if the position demands those qualities of head and heart, which in all ages have merited and won the applause of brave men and fair women, our Alabama friends have been eminently fortunate in conferring the honor upon Col. Burrell and Major Semple.

BASE BALL.—A match game of base ball was played yesterday afternoon on the grounds of the Eureka Club, between the first nine of the Liberty and the second nine of the Eclipse Clubs, which resulted as follows:

FOR CHICAGO.—The Mayor, members of the General Council and other invited guests who purpose attending the Douglas Monument ceremonial at Chicago, will be honored with a special train, which is to leave Jeffersonville on Tuesday morning for the Lake City. At Indianapolis and other cities upon the route, a number of dignitaries and celebrities will join the train to do honor to the memory of the illustrious "Little Giant."

HEBREW WEDDING.—The interesting ceremonies of a Hebrew wedding will take place this evening at six o'clock, at the Synagogue on Fourth street. Miss Carrie Sommer, a beautiful and accomplished young lady of this city, will be joined in the holy bonds of wedlock to Mr. L. Reinach, a prominent merchant of Pine Bluff, Arkansas. We wish the happy couple much joy and a long life of happiness.

A HAPPY GATHERING.—The Ormsby House, on Main street, is not only known by our readers, but by every one; but the fact is not generally known that Mr. Schad is in the concern. He lately purchased an interest in the house, and last night gave a public reception to his friends, in honor of being attached to so honorable a house. The meeting there last night was a most happy one, as all will testify, who were so fortunate as to be present.

MOTION.—In the City Court yesterday, Mr. John Vetter made a motion on behalf of the Commonwealth against John Winterboldt, that he be summoned and show cause why a dilapidated frame building, his property, situated on Third street, beyond Breckinridge, and in a condition dangerous to the community, should not be removed.

A MAN MURDERS HIS WIFE—We learn that on Thursday a fisherman, whose name we could not ascertain, murdered his wife at Plow-Handle Point, below Madison, and threw her body into the river. No cause is assigned for the bloody deed. He was arrested by a posse of men and confined in the Bedford jail.

POLL BOOKS.—The officers of the special election to be held on to-morrow can obtain the poll books by calling upon the Chief of Police, at his office. The books are all ready and can be obtained to-day.

RESIGNED.—Jesse Hammond, one of the most efficient members of the police force, has resigned. No appointment has as yet been made in his place.

LEG BROKEN.—The driver of an omnibus was thrown from a horse in New Albany on Friday, and had his leg broken in two places. His name was James Harwood.

Workmen were engaged in painting the tall steeple of the Catholic church on Fifth street yesterday.

Grant & Butler's school will be opened to-morrow, September 3, not September 4, as stated by mistake in the advertisement.

TROTTING AT THE GREENLAND PARK.

Two Exciting Races—The Decision Deferred to Monday.

The beautiful new trotting park, "Greenland," established by Worden P. Hahn, Esq., on his property beyond the graded road, extending from Third street, was inaugurated yesterday afternoon. Fortunately for the comfort of many visitors, a rain storm had lain the dust, and, to some extent, tempered the excessive heat.

The track is a most excellent one, and will, from its proximity to the city, soon become the popular resort of amateur drivers as well as regular turfmen. The drive from the city to the course is, of itself, attractive, and, when the sports are fairly in operation, we shall expect to hear of frequent races.

There were two trots yesterday afternoon, both of which were of a highly exciting and interesting character. The first race, mile heats, three best in five, was between four horses—roadsters—the property of citizens, the entries being as follows: O'Neill's, Shadburn's, Ryan's and Croxton's. The sport was fine and the excitement intense among the spectators. O'Neill came out ahead in the first heat and Shadburn in the second and third, the fourth being declared a dead heat. At this point the evening had advanced so far that it was deemed best to postpone the conclusion of the race to Monday. We annex the

SUMMARY.

Time—3:01½; 3:0[illegible]; 3:09.

Between heats a match was made between Hunselman, who entered Phil. Tomppert's mare, and Bryant's roan. This trial of speed was mile heats, the best two in three. Tomppert's mare won the first heat, and Bryant's roan the second. On account of dusk approaching the termination of this contest was also postponed until Monday afternoon.

We were pleased to see so large an attendance yesterday. There were quite a number of ladies present, who appeared to relish the delightful sport, and who added much grace and loveliness to the scene.

Mr. Hahn will use every exertion to render the Greenland a first-class racing course, and he deserves the support of our citizens. He has already made a large offer to the owners of the famous "Dexter," and hopes to succeed in bringing that splendid animal to this point.

We are gratified to state that the refreshment stands of the Greenland Park have been leased to John H. Wilson, Esq., an admirable caterer for the wants of the inner man. Mr. W. yesterday demonstrated to the large crowd his admirable fitness for this position. He has a splendid tenpin alley and other places of amusement, and intends having every arrangement made that will conduce to the comfort and interest of those of our citizens who may desire to drive to a quiet, genteel and pleasant place of resort.

Union of Our Two Medical Schools.

We learn with much gratification that after many years of endeavor, a union of the two medical schools of this city has been effected. The faculty of the Kentucky School of Medicine having been offered positions in the University, in conjunction with the gentlemen lately connected with that institution, determined to accept the same. We will therefore have but one school of medicine here, and that school, the old University. We are glad to be able to announce this fact. In the ordinary branches of competition, the more who are engaged the greater the advantage to others; but in science, and particularly in that branch of science which involves a knowledge of facts, standing at times between individuals and eternity, the case presents itself differently. The higher the standard of medical education, the better for the human race. The greater the desire to foist students upon communities as physicians, the worse for that community. The greater the competition in numbering classes the more certain are we to have a diarrhea of doctors to infect us. We are in favor of such a concentration of teaching talent as will effectually silence all attempts at disruption. This combination, we believe, has now been effected, and the announcement will be received with pleasure by all not governed by selfish motives. We hope to be able to announce the consummation of the proposed coalition in our next issue.

PALMER'S GREAT WESTERN CIRCUS AND HIPPODROME.—This mammoth and excellent institution will commence a series of entertainments on the corner of East and Walnut streets to-morrow night, and we have no doubt that our citizens, and everybody generally, are only too anxious to crowd the tent at every exhibition. On Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons they will give a grand performance; also at night, closing their entertainments on Wednesday night. Our old friend Eton—a pioneer in the show business—called upon us yesterday, and we were glad to know that he is steering Palmer's mammoth ship of "fun and equestrianism" through the West. There are a great many unusual attractions to be found in the ring under this mammoth tent, among which we may mention Mrs. C. Warner, formerly Mrs. Dan Rice, one of the finest equestriennes in this country. Mr. Palmer, the proprietor, is a legitimate showman, and knows what pleases the public; besides, he is a gentleman, and one who serves the public, as he alone knows how, in agreeably entertaining them. On the morning of each day there will be a grand parade, led by the splendid cornet band, under the direction of the celebrated Professor Lutyen. Let everybody prepare themselves for the feast. The cars run past the tent every few minutes; so that the situation is convenient for all to get to who desire to attend.

The Shelbyville Railroad.

The ordinance in aid of the Shelbyville railroad will be submitted to the people of Louisville to-morrow. The question is, whether the city shall subscribe $100,000 towards the completion of this road. The survey from Hobbs' depot to Shelbyville has been made, and in former years much of the road was graded. The question now is, shall Louisville subscribe $100,000 more towards the completion of the enterprise? The people will determine to-morrow.

HOT, HOTTER, HOTTEST.—Yesterday and last evening were remarkably hot for the first of the autumnal months. We may anticipate every degree of heat, however, the present month, September of last year having been an unusually heated term.

KENTUCKY.

—James A. Wallace, Esq., of Hopkinsville, the cashier of the bank at that place, has been appointed United States collector for the second district, vice R. M. Hathaway, resigned.

—The drug store of Messrs. Elliott & Pearl, in Owensboro, was entered on Sabbath night last, and robbed of about fifteen dollars.

—David Webb, jailer of Daviess county, resigned on Saturday last, and Joseph B. Mitchell, recently elected to that office, has been appointed to fill the vacancy.

—There was a light frost in Daviess county last Thursday night.

—On Sunday night last Joe Holton was stabbed in a fight at a house of ill fame on Copley Knob, near Bowlinggreen.

—The grand jury, which was in session at Owensboro last week, labored for two or three days trying to ferret out the murderers of Lieutenant Hampton, killed some months ago, but were unable to elicit sufficient testimony to bring in a true bill against any one. The case, however, has been left in such a condition that it can be investigated again, if further evidence can be adduced.

—The growing corn throughout Daviess county is generally looking well, and the prospect is flattering for a good crop.

THE RIGHTS OF A DIVORCED WIDOW.—At Lexington, the case in Chancery of Mary Ann Loud against the estate of her late husband, Richard Loud, for dower, was argued and submitted to the Court on Thursday last. This is a case of great importance, and one that will hereafter be of great weight as a precedent in all similar cases. The parties had, by mutual consent, separated some years previous to the death of Richard Loud, who, by deed, settled an annuity upon a trustee, for her use and benefit, in consideration that she, his wife, should forbear to assert any claim of dower, which contract she, since his death, has disregarded. By the statutes of this State, the widow is entitled to one-third of the entire personality of the husband, which, in this instance, amounts to some sixty thousand dollars. The case was ably argued by James B. Beck for plaintiff, and Hon. R. A. Buck-

The Catholics had a splendid picnic and dance at Joe Holt camp ground, a few days since, for the benefit of St. Augustine's Church.

The Board of Trustees of the Jeffersonville city schools have just taken the enumeration of children between the ages of six and twenty-one years, entitled to the benefits of our free schools in the city for the year 1866: Males, 750; females, 763. Total, 1,513. The following named persons have been selected by them as teachers for the next term of ten months, beginning September 3, 1866, viz: Miss V. Sanders, principal in high school No. 1; Miss M. C. Ingram, assistant. Miss L. Lawes, principal in preparatory department school No. 1; Miss Emma Sharpe, assistant. Mr. Goodwin, principal high school No. 2; Miss A. Collins, assistant.

Mrs. A. C. Cole, Principal Preparatory department school No. 2; Miss M. Bennett, assistant.

Miss A. H. Thurman, Principal in school No. 3.

Under the management of the trustees eight female teachers were employed 200 days last year at an average daily compensation of $1 75 each.

Out of an enumeration of about 1,300 children, 823 entered school last year, and received the benefits thereof.

Another school house is now being erected by the trustees on Newmarket street, between Canal and Mechanic, and will be known as school No. 3.

A NEGRO PICNIC—A NUMBER OF ARRESTS.—On Friday the colored persons gave a picnic at the Point, at which there was a general row about some trivial matter. In the row no one was seriously hurt, though a number were badly bruised up. The picnic was given by a notorious character named Truett, who, to avoid a prosecution for felony, swore that she was a negro. The managers, together with seventeen negroes, were arrested, all of whom were before the Police Court yesterday morning. The decision in their cases will be found in our police report.

PHILHARMONIC REHEARSAL.—We are informed that the first rehearsal of the Philharmonic Society, for the present season, will be held next Saturday evening, in the Musical Fund apartments of the Masonic Temple. It is earnestly desired that there be a full attendance of the members.

NO. 6—WEST UNION.
Miss Mary E. Durgin, Teacher.

[For the Louisville Democrat.]

The Shelbyville Railroad.

Messrs. Editors:

I see the citizens of Louisville are called upon to vote $100,000 to be used in building a branch railroad to Shelbyville—this $100,000 in addition to $120,000 of city bonds which the city has already agreed to loan this road.

The citizens of Shelby county have, if I understand the matter correctly, already voted against taxing themselves for this enterprise. They are the only interested parties in this enterprise, and I am unable even to imagine a reason why we should sink some $200,000 in an enterprise which they, the only persons really interested, have refused to vote one dollar for.

I say sink some $200,000, because it is well known to every man of experience in such matters that this road, which will cost at least half a million of dollars to complete, may not pay even the cost of running it, and certainly will not pay in addition, the interest on the money borrowed to complete and stock it. The loss of this amount of money might be excused, if not defended, as our people feel they have now such small taxes to pay and are particularly desirous for some plausible excuse to increase them, if the enterprise would materially, or indeed, immaterially benefit the city.

Shelby county has already most excellent road facilities. There are now some ten or twelve turnpike roads and a railroad running through the county. Indeed, such are the road facilities that I venture the statement that not one pound of produce raised in the county need remain at home for the want of good road facilities or a good market. This market is Louisville, and must continue to be, whether this proposed railroad is or is not built.

If we are in condition to aid in railroad enterprises, we should not thus throw our means away upon an enterprise which gives us no new trade, but we should apply them in opening new avenues of trade, especially in opening through routes, such as the road to Knoxville.

I sincerely hope the proposed tax will be voted down. TAX-PAYER.

Divine in hookas, glorious in a pipe,
When tipped with amber, mellowed, rich and ripe.

Thus did the impassioned soul of Byron give vent when charmed by the fragrance of Jones' tobacco, which he obtained in Constantinople, as he passed on to Greece. Jones' divan was a favorite lounging place of the Sultan, and it was there that Byron first beheld his highness. Jones subsequently came to America, and has established a branch of his famous Turkish divan in the Falls City.

Cramps, cholic, cholera, summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhea, and all affections of the bowels are cured promptly and effectually by Dr. D. Jayne's Carminative Balsam. LOCAL NOTICES.

"Muscat Perle."

In introducing the celebrated brand of Muscat Perle to the favorable notice of the elite of Louisville, we deem it necessary to state that it is made of the choicest brand of the Muscat grapes, called la Perle, and this wine produces exactly the sensation created by savoring this most delicious and perfumed of all grapes, which alone is a proof of its purity, and of superiority over all other imported and native wines.

Muscat Perle, though possessing such an exquisite fruitiness, is so generous by its nature, that, though containing no additional brandy or alcohol, it will preserve its bouquet for any length of time after it is opened, utterly different from those wines that deteriorate and become utterly worthless when exposed to the atmosphere. The most refined will hail with pleasure a pure wine, in all the sense of the word, a wine that will feel grateful to the most delicate, as it produces no acidity on the stomach; but, on the contrary, acts as the most soothing of cordials. Connoisseurs who have tried this wine par excellence, are most enthusiastic in its praises, and declare that they never tasted any real wine before, and never will use any other. "It is especially adapted for ladies."

Muscat Perle is put up in very handsome style, and though of surpassing excellency, retails at the very moderate price of $2 per bottle, large sizes, and is sold by all leading druggists and dealers.

THE CHOLERA.—Dr. Bigelow, a noted physician of Boston, says:

"From our past observations I do not believe that cholera, should it appear in this country, will be so likely to trouble New England as it is to visit the malarious portions of the South and West."

Among all the many different remedies advertised there are none that act so completely as an antidote to this malarious poison, and which give vigor and strength, than Dr. Rolrick's Stomach Bitters and Blood Pills. The Blood Pills act directly on the liver, causing it to throw off the deleterious matter, and the Bitters restore the appetite and invigorate the whole system, thoroughly keeping off the terrible scourge, cholera. au10 eod2m

LA ROSE AND BEAUJOLAIS.—These are some of the finest brands of red wines for medicinal purposes in the market. They are astringent wines, yet the choicest of imported French wines. People's Line of Steamers—Summer Arrangement—Change of Time—Leave Every Day at 11 o'clock A. M.

From and after this date the People's Line of new and magnificent steamers—the Wild Wagoner and St. Charles—will leave the company's wharfboat, at the foot of Fourth street, at precisely 11 o'clock A. M. instead of 12 M., as heretofore.

In making this change we announce to the public that it is done for the purpose of securing (during the low water and foggy season) passengers a direct and unfailing connection at Cincinnati with all the early trains East, and, also, to relieve the public mind from all apprehension in regard to racing. This change in the hour of departure will place the steamers of the rival lines one hour apart and thereby avoid the possibility of the boats coming together and racing.

We are determined that, so far as the People's Line is concerned, nothing shall be left undone to secure expeditious travel, comfort and safety, relying on punctuality, experienced officers and good and safe boats. J. K. BELL, President.

FOR THE CURE OF

SCROFULA, CANCER, GOITRE, ULCERS, SKIN DISEASES, &c., &c., &c.

JAYNE'S ALTERATIVE

Still Maintains its Superiority.

THE UNPARALLELED SUCCESS WHICH, for twenty-five years, has attended the use of JAYNE'S ALTERATIVE, enables the proprietors to recommend it to the afflicted with entire confidence, believing that it will effectually eradicate from the human system the diseases for whose cure it is designed, more promptly and thoroughly than any other remedy of this class. It has been found particularly beneficial in CANCER AND CANCEROUS AFFECTIONS of all kinds, curing a majority of the cases in which it has been used, and oftentimes after the failure of other remedies.

GOITRE OR SWELLED NECK.—In innumerable cases of this disease, in which Jayne's Alterative has been persevering used, it has never been known to fail. [illegible] have been cured who have continued its use [illegible] directions.

DROPSY AND [illegible] SWELLINGS.—Many physicians [illegible] used the Alterative in diseases of this [illegible] it a specific, so great has been [illegible]. It acts by increasing the powers of [illegible] [illegible] and all unnatural [illegible] are [illegible].

EPILEPSY, FITS, CONVULSIONS, are usually [illegible] and [illegible] proved that the Alterative, in conjunction with the Sanative Pills [illegible] these [illegible] by all who are subject to these terrible afflictions.

SCROFULA.—In all the forms of this disease, whether in that of Ulcerations of the Feet or Bones, Enlargement of the Joints, Tetters, Swellings, Eruptions, Tumors, &c., the Alterative has been pre-eminently [illegible]. It enters into and circulates with the blood, thus destroying the virus or poisonous principle from which these diseases originate.

SKIN DISEASES of all kinds, Scald Head, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, [illegible], Pimples, Blotches, Roughness of the Skin, &c., are readily cured by the Alterative.

RHEUMATISM AND NEURALGIA.—In chronic cases, this Alterative, if perseveringly used, is generally successful. In Acute Rheumatism, Jayne's Liniment should be applied in connection, according to directions.

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.—In many affections peculiar to females, especially when arriving at maturity, or at the change of life, the Alterative is unsurpassed by any other remedy. In [illegible] of Retention, Irregularity and Leucorrhea, the best results have always followed its [illegible] use.

COMPLICATED AND MIXED DISEASES, NERVOUS AFFECTIONS, DISEASES OF THE HEART, LIVER COMPLAINT, Constitutional Diseases and diseases originating in a depraved or imperfect state of the Blood, are all cured by Jayne's Alterative; and while it is a fault in many medicines that when they are removing the disease they are also prostrating the patient beyond recovery, the Alterative has no such drawback. While neutralizing the virus of disease at its very source, it sustains the strength of the system. The union of [illegible] properties is [illegible] and the fact that these influences are blended harmoniously in its operation, distinguish it from all other similar preparations. Let the afflicted give it a trial.

All of Dr. D. JAYNE & SON'S Family Medicines are sold in Louisville by our Agents, Messrs. R. A. ROBINSON & CO., and by Druggists generally.

Shoenberger's Boiler Plates.

AN EXPERIENCE OF MORE THAN FORTY YEARS in the manufacture of

Boiler Plates,

Has fully convinced the Messrs. Shoenberger that the

"OLD REFINING PROCESS"

Is the only safe method by which a sound and perfect plate can be made. Several years ago their boiler iron was virtually out of the market for a while for the reason that they would not adopt the new processes by which other manufacturers were enabled to make a cheaper article. After the sacrifice of hundreds of lives by explosion, the cry was again more raised to pass laws requiring better quality in a better quality of iron, &c., and then it was that

Shoenberger's Make of Boiler Plates

Was again sought for, and now parties who prefer

Security to Cheapness,

Make it a condition in their contracts for engines, that the boilers shall be made of

SHOENBERGER'S IRON.

We beg leave to impress upon parties wanting boiler iron, the vital importance of procuring an article that will not merely stand the Government test, but which shall at least give twenty-five per cent. additional margin. This, we claim, [illegible]

DR. LIGHTHILL'S

APPROACHING VISIT TO

LOUISVILLE.

DR. E. BUNFORD LIGHTHILL,

FROM NEW YORK CITY,

AUTHOR OF

NEPHOTHERAPY,

The new system of treatment for Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, "A Popular Treatise on Deafness," "Letters on Catarrh," &c., &c.,

Whose great success during his eight months' practice in the Burnet House, Cincinnati, is testified to by a large number of the most influential citizens, in compliance with the urgent and repeated request of numerous parties desirous of consulting him, has made arrangements for a professional visit to

LOUISVILLE,

And secured rooms for that purpose at the

LOUISVILLE HOTEL,

Where he may be consulted

FOR A SHORT TIME,

On and after

Monday, September 3,

ON

DEAFNESS, CATARRH,

Discharges from the Ear,

Asthma, Bronchitis,

And all diseases of the

EAR, THROAT & LUNGS.

Dr. Lighthill would call the attention of the public to the fact that, encouraged by his extensive and constantly increasing practice in Cincinnati, and for the better interest of his patients, he has removed from the Burnet House to

NO. 201 WEST FOURTH STREET,

For the purpose of establishing for the West

A Permanent Branch

Of his New York Institute, where either himself or one of his able associates will be in constant attendance.

In order to save unnecessary correspondence notice is hereby given that a personal examination is required in every case before a correct opinion can be given or the appropriate treatment prescribed. The remedies can be applied at home in the majority of cases, therefore one interview usually suffices.

The following are a few of the numerous testimonials received in Cincinnati, from parties well known throughout the West. Many others of a similar character can be seen at the Doctor's rooms:

Cure of Captain Silas F. Miller,

Proprietor of the Burnet House, Cincinnati.

BURNET HOUSE, Feb. 9th, 1866.

To my friends and the public:

It affords me great satisfaction to be able to testify to the success of Dr. Lighthill in the treatment of deafness, and express my sense of obligation to him.

My hearing has been impaired for a number of years, at times to such an extent as to embarrass me seriously. Dr. Lighthill, under whose care I placed myself, has removed the difficulty, and restored me to perfect hearing.

I have not the time to reply to letters of inquiry touching the subject; nor can I say anything further than is embodied in the above statement, which is correct in every particular. The genuineness of the certificate will be vouched for by the proprietors of the Louisville Hotel.

SILAS F. MILLER.

Cure of H. D. Peck, Esq., Attorney at Law.

Having been cured by Dr. Lighthill of a partial deafness of some years' duration, I feel myself in duty bound, both as an act of justice to the Doctor and as an encouragement for those suffering from defective hearing, to make a statement of my case.

For several years past my hearing became very much impaired, and continued to do so until the defect seriously embarrassed me in the discharge of my duties, and threatened to become, in time, a most painful and serious obstacle to my usefulness.

I had heard so much of the mischief done to hearing by unskillful treatment, that I was afraid of making any efforts, fearing that my deafness might only be increased by doing so.

While on a visit East, last summer, I was advised to consult Dr. Lighthill, but was prevented doing so by unpropitious circumstances. Hearing of his arrival in Cincinnati, I at once availed myself of his professional skill, by placing myself under his care; and although he spoke very cautiously in regard to the extent to which he might benefit me, I am now, after a short course of treatment, restored to perfect hearing.

No one, save those who have been placed in similar circumstances, can at all appreciate the joy which I feel at the restoration of a sense so important as that of hearing, the value of which I now realize more than I ever did before.

I cannot close this statement without paying my tribute to the skill displayed by Dr. Lighthill in the treatment of my case and to the masterly manner in which he conducted his operations, and, for the benefit of the nervous or timid, I will state that the treatment was entirely of a painless character.

H. D. PECK, Attorney at Law,
19[illegible] Walnut street, Cincinnati.

A TESTIMONIAL FOR THE CURE OF CATARRH.

From A. H. Pounsford, Esq.,

Of the Firm of Applegate & Co., 43 Main street, Cincinnati.

Dr. E. B. Lighthill, Cincinnati—

Dear Sir: I take great pleasure in awarding to your skill as a physician, the prompt, perfect and complete cure of my daughter, who has been suffering for years with that dangerous malady, CATARRH.

From the first application of your remedies she began to improve, and, although under your care but a few weeks, is now restored to perfect health.

The remarkable success you have had in her case prompts me to publicly acknowledge my thanks to you.

Yours truly,
A. H. POUNSFORD.

A TESTIMONIAL FROM

Capt. James T. Fisher,

Of No. 372 West Sixth street, Cincinnati, for the Successful Treatment of Chronic Catarrh.

For the past five or six years, I have been affected with the distressing complaint in the head known as Catarrh. In addition to the profuse discharge and other disagreeable symptoms characteristic of the disease, it gave rise in my case to a distressing and almost constant pain above and between the eyes, and to frequent attacks of facial neuralgia, from which I could get no relief. A few months ago, I placed myself under the care of Dr. Lighthill, and now feel like a new man. My head feels clear and natural; I am free from the pain and distress from which I have suffered so much, and the neuralgia has disappeared. My experience justifies me fully in recommending Dr. Lighthill and his treatment to all those suffering from catarrh.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES

TO THE DEMOCRAT.

FROM ST. LOUIS.

Death of an old Pilot—Items from Montana Territory—More Trouble Among the Presbyterians.

Special to the Louisville Democrat.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1.

Captain John Carny, who was one of the oldest pilots in the West, and an upright and estimable man, died at Cape Girardeau, in this State, last week, at the advanced age of 70 years. He served in the war of 1812, and located at Cape Girardeau in 1819.

We have Montana dates to August 10th. Governor Meagher had issued a proclamation ordering an election for Territorial legislation, to be held on the 3d of September. There was considerable excitement at Helena over a reported discovery of gold in the Wind River Mountain, 300 miles from Helena. A report is to the effect that 300 emigrants are successfully engaged in mining on Big Horn, a stream flowing through the above named mountain, and that the bar discovered is 6 miles in length, and pays 4 cents the pan. One hundred armed men left Helena on the 9th for the mines. Julia Dean has been delighting the people of Virginia City and Helena with her performances. It is said that she has coined quite a little fortune.

The Palmyra Presbytery of the Old School Presbyterian Church, met in Montana county, in this State, last week, and got along very well until Friday, when a dispute arose concerning the action of the last General Assembly forbidding Declaration of Testimony men to sit in synods and presbyteries. The trouble ended in the withdrawal of those who adhered to the Assembly.

FROM CHICAGO.

Meeting of the State Agricultural Society—Departure of Governor Bross to Attend the Radical Convention—Sad Accident—A Man Crushed to Death—Cholera Reports, etc.

Special to the Louisville Democrat.

CHICAGO, September 1.

The Board of the State Agricultural Society will assemble at Maltoon on Monday, September 3d, preparatory to a State implement exhibition, which will commence the following day.

Lieutenant Governor Bross and some half-dozen prominent Radicals, of Illinois, left Chicago last night for Philadelphia to attend the convention of the so-called loyalists, which opens next Monday in that city.

A man named Isaac Johnson was crushed to death last night at Elgin while attempting to pass between two freight cars that were being coupled together. He leaves a family.

Some of the most bitter Radical disunionists in this city are talking about having the Douglas monument ceremonies postponed because President Johnson is to be here and participate in the ceremonies next week. They will not succeed, however, in their selfish scheme.

There were twelve cases of supposed cholera reported at the health office during the past twenty-four hours, fourteen of which terminated fatally.

The weather is wet and untavorable for outdoor operations, but it has no material effect on the produce markets, which are steady and without material change.

FROM CINCINNATI,

Committees of the Democratic Party and Johnson Club Appointed—Only one case of Cholera—Stolen Child Returned—Stephens to Address the Fenians.

Special to the Louisville Democrat.

CINCINNATI, September 1.

Committees of the Democratic party and the Johnson club have been appointed to invite the President and party to this city. Only one death from cholera occurred to-day.

Davidson, the child stolen several months since, was brought back to the city to-day. She has been absent nearly five months, and has traveled over four months in the company of a Harlot. She was recovered at Chicago by Lieut. Hefferman of our police, and her kidnapper arrested.

Head Center Stephens will address the Fenians in this city on Wednesday next. It is intended to give him immense ovation.

FROM MEMPHIS.

The Cholera—Accident to the Steamboat Darling—Port List—River and Weather.

Special to the Louisville Democrat.

MEMPHIS, September 1.

The fine weather and the prohibition of green fruit and melons have had a good effect on the cholera. There were seven new cases and sixteen deaths reported today.

The steamboat Darling struck the wreck of the Sunny Side at Island No. 16, causing her to leak slightly. Captain Bowers entered protest. She leaves to-morrow.

Business active. River falling with six inches.

Boats Up—Pauline Carroll and Adam Jacobs.

Boats Down—Ben. Able, McClure, Lizzie Gill, Gleaner and Mollie Able.

In Port—Darling and Laura Fenton.

FROM PITTSBURG.

River and Weather—Firemen's Parade—Oil Market.

Special to the Louisville Democrat.

PITTSBURG, September 1.

The weather is cloudy and looks like rain. Trade on the landing is pretty much suspended. Water two feet and falling. The Ida Rees laid over until Monday.

The firemen's parade to-day made a fair show. Several companies did not participate.

Oil market—The week's receipts by river and rail 2,700 barrels. Since opening of navigation 955,000 barrels, increase over same time last year 507,000 barrels.

ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES.

FROM NEW YORK.

The Reception of President Johnson.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 1.

The train halted before Congress Hall, when the Mayor of the city came on board and escorted the distinguished party to Congress Hall, where they partook of lunch. There was more excitement than at any other place where we have halted since leaving Albany. The President appeared on the upper balcony in company with Mayor Moon, and the hospitalities of the citizens were extended.

This, the Mayor said, was irrespective of party. They remembered, in the dark days of the rebellion, the President took a firm stand, in the midst of the faithless, for the maintenance of the Union. However much they might disagree with him in the policy he was pursuing, they believed he was actuated by honest and patriotic motives, and had the best interests of the country at heart, and they all expressed the hope that his efforts would result in the restoration of the entire country in the prosperity and peace of the whole country.

The President, in reply, said: I heartily thank you for the kind welcome you have given me; and I will furthermore say that demonstrations like these inspire me with confidence, and encourages me in the course of policy I have pursued for the preservation of the Union and the vindication of the Constitution of the United States. (Cheers.) I rely on the intelligence, integrity and patriotism of the great mass of the American people to preserve this government in the present as they have in the past emergencies. The physical man is weak, and the intellect is not as strong as it ought to be. I thank God that the spirit is right. (Applause). As long as the blood that now warms and animates me, and courses up and down my veins, the best energies of my manhood shall be developed to the interest of the Union and the Constitution of the country. (Applause.) I see before me the colors you have borne through the conflict of battle. You are aware of the sacrifices which have been made to preserve the Union, and therefore it is not for me to recount the number of lives lost, and the maimed, and of the treasury expended, now that the warlike struggle has passed. I commit to your hands, the hands of the people, and the officers and the soldiers, God bless them, the flag of our country, the Constitution of the United States, and the Union, and permit, in the sincerity of my heart again to thank you for this reception, and bid you farewell. [Applause.] Let me invoke the blessing of heaven to rest on the people of the States.

BROCKPORT, 1:15 p. m.

Notwithstanding the rain a very large concourse of people greeted the President and party.

ALBION, 2 p. m.

The train here halted for 15 minutes, when Hon. Sanford E. Church tendered a cordial welcome to the President. The President briefly responded. The other distinguished excursionists were introduced, and received the cheers of all beholders. Notwithstanding the rain a large number of persons were present at this place.

MEDINA, N. Y., Sept. 1.

Col. Hessickles extended hospitalities to the President, as a man who so well illustrated our institutions; one of the faithful few who yielded not when the tide of treason swept over the South, and who stood now as he had always stood, devoted to the Union and the Constitution. Every place, he said, you tread becomes historical ground, and we are proud our village is thus honored.

The President briefly returned thanks, saying he could give no other indication of his future course than what were to be found in his previous declarations and official acts.

BUFFALO, September 1.

The President and party had a reception this evening at Niagara Falls, and to-night are attending a grand ball at the International hotel. They remain at the Falls over Sunday, and come to Buffalo on Monday and have a reception and remain here till evening, when they will leave for the West.

Sailing of Steamer.

NEW YORK, September 1.

The ocean steamer of the Pacific Mail Steamship Companies line to China leaves this port on the first of October next.

Bank Defalcation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.

The President of the Nassau Bank, in a card, states that the paying teller Briggs' defalcation amounts to $61,000, but owing to the securities the bank holds their loss will be less than $50,000. The surplus of the bank is over $200,000.

A Sad Accident.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 1.

Yesterday, on the arrival of the President's party in this city, a son of Mr. Richardson rushed toward the carriage to shake hands with Gen. Grant, but, in his efforts to do so, fell under the wheel, thereby shattering his leg. He was conveyed to his home last night. He sent word to Secretary Seward that he would like to see the General. The latter, affected by the circumstances, as related by the Secretary, last at 11 o'clock, attended by Surgeon General Barnes, called the house at the sufferer, and told the youth when he recovered to write to him and he might be of use to him.

Departure of Queen Emma for for Home—Export of Government Bonds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.

Queen Emma, of Sandwich Islands, started for home to-day via Aspinwall and San Francisco.

The steamers Arago and City of Paris took out to-day about four million dollars in Government bonds.

Cholera in New York and Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, September 1.

Only two new cases of cholera were reported in this city to-day. Three cases were reported in Brooklyn.

FROM PHILADELPHIA.

Southern Loyal Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.

Broad street, in front of the League House, was crowded, and the reception was in every way enthusiastic. The League House was illuminated on the portion with a brilliant jet of gas lights.

In the course of Mr. Durant's remarks, he said that under the unfortunate circumstances now surrounding them, the loyal people of the South are flying from their homes to seek refuge, hospitalities and the freedom of voting and discussion here in the North. How long is this to continue? How long is it before the loyal people of the Union will get the [illegible] men of the South. A government, in my opinion, is free when every man shall have the right to express his sentiments, to vote and in words, where he shall have the privilege of communicating, in every respect, what he thinks. Do you not know that now the liberty of speech and the liberty of the press is dead in New Orleans, and that American citizens were slaughtered in New Orleans, under the American flag, without provocation?

Ex-Governor Hamilton also spoke. In the course of his address he said: Your hearts and arms, too, for another conflict, cries of we are ready. You know the wicked element that has produced this feeling, and it is with deep regret that I make this [illegible] after the sad and gloomy events of the last four years, but are we to ignore our friends North and South? Whatever has been my prejudices in the past, I am not willing to ignore the black man any more.

Gov. Brownlow said he came to listen to Mr. Durant. He had often heard of New Orleans, and he desired to hear the hero of New Orleans. He had just concluded a journey of one thousand miles in forty-eight hours, and came at the request of fifty loyalists of Tennessee. They came to a convention of what was termed by the chief executive mean whites and poor sneaks, but it was a convention where it would not be necessary to call in order to exclude any of the delegation in order to produce harmony, nor would it be necessary to muzzle any of the delegates. He begged pardon for having been the man who placed Andrew Johnson in nomination, as God had forgiven him, he hoped the people of Pennsylvania would also forgive him. But he would say that it would have been better if the whole of the Tennessee delegates had been in Libby prison instead of Baltimore. [Cheers and laughter.] In regard to the South, he would say that if the spirit of the South and the rebellious spirit combined with treachery, and the Copperheads of the North should bring another war upon this country, [illegible] leave your wives and children, your homes and parents, and invade the South to put it down. I want to have something to say about the division of force. Let there be three divisions. Let the first go armed according to regulations, with small arms and artillery, and let them do the killing. Let the second go with burning torches and let them do the burning; let the third and last go with the surveyors' compass and chain, and we will sell out the lands to pay the expense of the war, and settle the country with men who will honor this glorious banner. [Cheers.]

The delegates to the Southern Loyal Convention are arriving in the city. About 600 delegates have registered their names at the Union League House up to to-night.

The following order of proceedings was issued this afternoon:

The Southern delegates will meet in the rooms of the National Union Club, No. 1,10[illegible] Chestnut street. At half past 9 o'clock A. M., they will proceed from there to Independence Hall. The Northern conference delegates will be escorted from Independence Hall to the Union League house, according to orders issued by Gen. Stokes, chief marshal, where they will be received and welcomed by Chas. Gibbons, Chairman of the Committee on Reception on behalf of the League.

After the address of welcome, and reply, the Southern delegates will be escorted to National Hall where the escort will be dismissed. To prevent confusion no person will be admitted to the Convention on Monday but members thereof except the delegates from the Southern States. The conference delegates appointed by the Governors of the Northern States, or [illegible] authorized to represent them in the Convention will meet at the League House at 10 o'clock on Monday for temporary organization.

The two bodies will be invited in National Convention at such time as the loyal Unionists of the South may designate. The union will take place in front of the League House in presence of the people, of which due notice will be given. Chas. McClintock, of the Philadelphia Press, was appointed to furnish the Committee of Reception with the names of several reporters in attendance at the Convention, and the papers which they represent. Tickets of admission will be issued to the reporters named in the official list, but none others, on Monday morning at [illegible] o'clock at the League House.

Money Market.

LONDON, Sept. 1, P. M.

Consols closed this evening at 89½ for money. American securities have ruled steady. The closing quotations are as follows: U. S. 5-20s, 73½; Erie, 46½; Ill. Central, 79¼.

Peace.

PRAGUE, Sept. 1.

The terms of peace between Austria and Italy are rapidly progressing toward settlement, and it is generally believed that peace will be fully and finally consummated between these powers in ten days.

Cotton.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 1.

Cotton dull. Sales to-day 7,000 bales middlings; uplands close at 13¼c; breadstuffs generally unchanged; corn steady; mixed Western 26s2d per quarter; provisions are generally firmer, with an upward tendency.

England.

LONDON, September 1—P. M.

The London Times, in view of the questions arising between England and America, growing out of the recent war in the United States, and the more recent raids by the Fenians into Canada, urges the British Government to take into immediate consideration the feasibility, if not the necessity, of so extending the provisions of the neutrality laws as to hold the different Governments to strict account for all acts in defense of that law committed by the subjects of each.

A Letter from the Emperor Napoleon.

PARIS, September 1.

The Emperor Napoleon, in a letter to King Victor Emanuel on the 11th of August, rejoices that the era of peace has returned. He says he accepted the cession of Venitia from Austria "in order that the people of that country might be enabled to choose their own destiny."

The Empress has exerted her influence in favor of humanity and the best interests of the people of Venitia and of Italy.

Russian Government.

ST. PETERSBURG, September 1.

The Russian government, prior to the negotiations of peace proposed to the French Emperor and the other powers, that neutrality should participate in the territorial change, occasioned by the results of the war. The proposition was not supported by France and England, and the Czar refrained from officially giving in the matter, reserving, however, liberty of action to himself in the future.

FROM THE SOUTH.

Letter From Judge Abell.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 1.

Judge Abell has addressed a letter to General Sheridan through the newspapers, defending himself against the charge of being a dangerous man. He says that in his judicial station he knew naught but fidelity to the State and humanity to the unfortunate, regardless of color. If dangerous, he was a most unsuccessful agitator, for until the assembly of the convention on the 30th, the laws as effectually preserved peace as in any other city in the Union. There were two armies disbanded and a large influx of negroes. Notwithstanding, no blood would have been shed if others were as earnest as he was in opposing attempted usurpation.

He says since the re-establishment of civil authority in Louisiana the status of Northern men is one of perfect safety.

In Texas, west of the Cholorado, the cotton crop is small in extent but good in quantity and quality.

FROM SAN FRANCISCO.

Indian Outrages, &c.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.

The brig Marliner, thirty-eight days from the Society Islands, reports four vessels of the Spanish fleet still in the harbor receiving coal from the British ship Matoores. The American steamer Uncle Sam was lying in the same harbor.

An Arazonia paper, of August 23, states that 150 Indians attacked a train of eleven persons near Lopez. After a fight of three hours the savages retired, leaving twenty-three of their number dead.

The steamers Oriflamme, Portland, Active and Victoria bring jointly $250,400.

Vessels arrived—Barque Gustave, Pickard, Bordeau and the whaling barques Mary and Susan.

POSTSCRIPT.

[SPECIAL TO THE WESTERN PRESS.]

8 A. M., Sept. 2.

FROM NEW YORK.

Letter from Beecher.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher having been invited to act as chaplain to the convention of soldiers and sailors at Cleveland, returned the following answer:

"PEEKSKILL, Aug. 30, 1866.

To Charles G. Halpine, Brevet Brig.-Gen.; H. W. Slocum, Maj.-Gen.; Gordon Granger, Maj.-Gen. Commanding:

GENTLEMEN: I am obliged to you for the position which you have made me to act as chaplain to the convention of sailors and soldiers, about to convene at Cleveland. I can't attend it, but I heartily wish it and all other conventions of what political party soever, success, whose object is the restoration of all the States late in rebellion, to their federal relations. Our theory of government has no place for a State except in the Union, and it is partly taken for granted that the duties and responsibilities of a State in federal relations tends to its political health, and to that of the whole nation. Some Territories are hastily brought in, often before the prescribed conditions are fulfilled, as if it were dangerous to leave a community outside of the great body politic had the loyal Senators and Representatives been admitted at once on the assembling of Congress, and in moderate succession those of Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, North Carolina and Virginia, the public mind of the people of the South would have been far more healthy than it is, and those States which lingered on probation to the last would have been under a more salutary influence to good conduct than if a dozen armies had watched over them. Every month that we delay this healthful step complicates the case. The excluded population might unsettled before grow more irritable. The army becomes indispensible to local governments, and supersedes it. The Government at Washington is called to interfere in one and another difficulty, and this will be done sometimes with great injustice, for our Government wisely adapted to its proper functions, is utterly devoid of those habits, with the instruments which fit a centralized government to exercise authority in remote States, of local affairs. Every attempt to perform such duties has resulted in mistakes which have excited the nation, but whatever importance there be in the method to real criticism, it should be against the requisition of the general to exercise authority in politics, as it will inevitably keep half a score of States under Federal authority to govern half the territory of the Union by Federal civil officers agreed in the army, is a policy not only uncongenial to our ideas and principles, but evidently dangerous to the spirit of our government however humane the end sought and the motives; it is in fact a course of instructions preparing our Government to be despotic and familiarizing the people to a system of autocracy which can never be other than dangerous to liberty. I am aware that good men are withheld from advocating the prompt and successive admission of the exiled States by the fear chiefly of its effects upon the freedmen, and that if admitted to Congress these Southern Senators and Representatives will coalesce with the Democrats of the North and rule the country. Is this nation then to remain dissemblers to serve the ends of party. Have we learned no wisdom by the history of the last ten years, in which just this course of sacrificing the nation to the exigencies of parties, plunged us into rebellion and war. Even admit that the power would pass into the hands of a party made up of Southern men—the hitherto dishonored and misled Democracy of the North. That power could not be used just as they pleased. The war has changed not alone our institutions but our ideas. The whole country has advanced, but public sentiment is exalted far beyond what it has been at any time. For the sake of the freedmen of the South, and its millions of fellow countrymen, for our own sake, and for the great cause of freedom and civilization, I urge the immediate re-union of all the parts which rebellion and war have shattered. I am truly yours,

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE DEMOCRAT,
SATURDAY EVENING, Sept. 1, 1866.

The dispatches represented the New York gold market yesterday as being without special change, and closing at 147[illegible]. The market opened to-day at 147⅛ and declined to 145¾, which was the quotation telegraphed to the Board of Trade at 12:30.

The gold market here, which has been unusually sluggish during the past week, opened to-day at 146½@147½, and declined to 146 buying and 147 selling, which were the prevailing rates at 12 M., with more important offerings and a more active demand. The following is an exhibit of the buying and selling rates for the week:

	BUYING.	SELLING.
Monday	146½	147½
Tuesday	147½	148½
Wednesday	14[illegible]	1[illegible]
Thursday	146½	147½
Friday	14[illegible]	147
Saturday	146	147

Exchange on New York has been, and continues, in excess of the demand, and prices have been irregular, with a tendency to a decline. On Thursday the current rates were ¼ discount buying and 1-10 discount to par selling. The market has, however, rallied somewhat, and, with a better inquiry, rates have advanced to 1-10 discount buying and par selling, at which the market closed to-day.

Government securities continue in good demand, but transactions, owing to their scarcity in this market, have been unimportant. Prices on most descriptions have advanced, as will be seen by the following comparative statement:

The following were the New York quotations received at the Board of Trade today: 5-20s, 108 bid, 109⅜ asked; coupons 112½, second series, 109¾ bid; coupons 109¼@109½, third series 109¼@109½; 10-40s 99, coupons 99; 7-30s 107¼@107½, second and third series 106¼@106½; sterling 108@109⅛; Erie 72[illegible]; Chicago and Rock Island 108[illegible].

The money market during the week has worked close, and with but slight, if any, abatement in the stringency, which has been its prominent feature for several weeks. It is a noticeable fact in financial affairs that, while Eastern cities are burdened to overflowing with greenbacks and national bank currency, the cities of the West, without an exception, are experiencing a stringency which is operating greatly to their commercial disadvantage. Eastern advices, however, represent the westward flow of currency as already commenced, and we may, therefore, anticipate greater ease in monetary affairs at no distant day. The rates of interest are nominal. The banks are, to a limited extent, accommodating their regular customers at from 9 to 12 per cent., but paper is scrutinized with more than usual severity, and that which can't pass the ordeal, seeks accommodation in the open market, where rates of interest vary from 1 to 2 per cent. a month. We give the following

The meeting on 'Change to-day did not differ materially from those of the past week, unless, possibly, it was smaller and of less importance commercially. We have recently called attention through these columns to the sparse attendance of merchants and business men at the regular 'Change meetings, the effect of which has been disheartening, and well calculated to bring the Board of Trade into disrepute. The matter, we are glad to know, is attracting attention, and has called forth the following circular from the President, Mr. John B. Smith:

BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS,
LOUISVILLE, KY., Sept. 1, 1866.

To the Members of the Board of Trade:

The necessity of maintaining our organization, the most important feature of which is the daily meeting of all members and the intercourse and interchange of views with each other, has induced the request that you attend promptly hereafter. The exchange hour is from 1 o'clock, P. M.; at least one representative from each house should be seen daily on 'Change.

The usual commercial year begins with the 1st of September, and it is urgently desired that large and regular meetings of the merchants will henceforth characterize the gatherings on 'Change. In order to secure the benefits resulting from our organization, to give character and importance to our commerce, facilitate trade, and enhance the usefulness and efficiency of the Board of Trade.

It is to be hoped you will appreciate this appeal, and give it your co-operation and personal attention.

Respectfully,
JOHN B. SMITH, Prest.

C. H. CLARKE, Sec'y.

We hope hereafter to see full meetings and fuller reports of transactions. We also hope to see arrangements perfected by which telegraphic market reports will be received from St. Louis, Memphis and New Orleans. We are happy to know that they are regarded as a necessity by merchants, and the question of cost is certainly not of sufficient importance to create any hesitancy on the part of the Board of Trade.

As a part of the proceedings of the meeting to-day, the following communication was received and acted upon:

LOUISVILLE, September 1, 1866.

To the President and Members of the Board of Trade:

GENTLEMEN: We, the undersigned, have been appointed by the General Council, as a committee to act in conjunction with a committee to be appointed by your honorable body, to make the necessary arrangements to receive the President of the United States, and other distinguished citizens, now on a visit to Chicago, our city having extended her hospitality to these distinguished citizens.

Respectfully,
JOHN G. BAXTER,
HENRY DENT,
PHILIP T. GERMAN,
ROBERT F. BAIRD.

Upon motion, the communication was received and the following committee appointed, viz: V. P. Armstrong, Chairman, S. P. Weisiger, Z. M. Sherley, Geo. W. Wicks, B. C. Levi, Fred. Leib and John B. Smith.

The dispatches received to-day from New York, Cincinnati and Chicago were without special importance. In most of the leading commodities they indicate steadiness, and prices have undergone but slight quotable change.

The New York dispatch reported the cotton market as dull and prices nominal, quoted at 32@35c. Dry goods are reported active at full prices; sugar active; coffee unchanged; Pork advanced, quoted at $33; flour, wheat and corn declining; whisky $2 25.

The Cincinnati dispatch reported the provision market quiet; flour is unchanged, wheat, corn and oats unchanged; whisky advanced to $2 28, free.

The Chicago dispatch quoted pork at $33 50; lard 19@20c; bulk shoulders 14½c; clear sides 18½c, all loose; superfine flour $6@7 50; No. 1 wheat $1 77@1 79; No. 2 $1 61; oats 21@28c; rejected corn 40@45c; No. 1 50¾; whisky $2 23.

The general markets of the city during the past week have exhibited a decided improvement in many of the departments of trade, and dealers are beginning to realize their anticipations of an active business.

FLOUR—Has been in active local and shipping demand and prices have been fully maintained, and the market closes steady at quotations. The city brands have advanced, and "Beargrass" is selling at $12 50 and Miller's Eagle at $12 25. A difference of from 75c to $1 is made between the price of superfine made of old wheat and that made of new crop, old being quoted at $6 50@7, new at $7 75@8.

GRAIN—Wheat is coming forward slowly and prices are still irregular, the views of farmers in many instances being above those of millers. Prices range from $2 10 to $2 25 for red and from $2 25 to $2 40 for white. Some parcels strictly choice are held and have sold above these figures, but they are regarded as fancy and not the quotable rates of the market. In many portions of Indiana, we learn that farmers are refusing to sell at present figures, anticipating an advance; our information, however, leads us to the conclusion that prices must decline before October. Corn has been in moderate request and prices are tending to lower figures. Sales of prime white are made at 85@88c including sacks and delivery; mixed is held at from 70c to 76c from store and including sacks and delivery. Oats are coming forward freely, and the demand, which is principally local, is largely supplied from wagons, and are selling at from 33c to 35c. Dealers are getting 10c in bulk from store in light lots.

BALE ROPE AND BAGGING—The market has experienced a lull during the week and, though prices are not quotably lower, we are inclined to the opinion that concessions could be obtained for round lots; the demand has been principally for plantation account, with some transaction speculation. The season has not yet arrived for an active consumptive demand, and the quiet which now pervades the market is expected to continue until about the first of October, when it is expected stocks will rapidly disappear at advanced rates. We hear of a sale of 25 bales of India to-day at $3 31.

GROCERIES—Nothing of special interest has transpired during the week in groceries. The jobbing trade has been more than usually active, and prices on leading articles have undergone no quotable change.

HIDES—There is a good demand for hides, and prices are firm, with an upward tendency. Sales of flint have been made during the week at 16c.

HAY—The market is well supplied. Loose hay, from wagons, is selling at 65@70c per 100 lbs; pressed hay ranges at from $16@17, from store.

COUNTRY PRODUCE—The market is well supplied with potatoes, which are dull and nominal at $1@1 30, in bulk, per bbl, and $1 60 per bbl, packed, in good shipping order. Fruits are coming forward freely. Choice peaches and apples are scarce; free-stone peaches command from $3 to $5 per bushel; clings are dull at $1@2 50 per bushel; apples range from $2 to $3 50, according to quality. Flaxseed is active at $2 75; feathers have advanced and are firm at 78@80c; ginseng is drooping and lower. A few fresh dried apples have made their appearance, and are purchased at from $6 to $7 per bbl. Eggs have advanced.

PROVISIONS—The market is firm, with fair demand for smoked meats; clear sides are held at 21½@21¾c; rib sides at 20¾@21c; shoulders are steady 17½c; sugar-cured hams are firm at 24½@25c; mess pork has been in light demand during the week at $33 25@33 50, and the market exhibited to-day increased firmness. The general impression of dealers is that prices must range considerably above present figures, and are not pressing their stocks upon the market.

WHISKY—Has had an advancing tendency during the week, and the market closes firm at $2 28 for raw.

DRY GOODS—The market during the week has been encouragingly and satisfactorily active. Prices have undergone but slight quotable change. Brown standard sheetings are held at 22c; Georgia sheetings are a fraction lower, being quoted at 21@22c; bleached sheetings range at 20@45c; prints are without change; Merrimacs are quoted at 21c, and standard at 20c. Combinations and complications in New York may advance or lower prices; but, with cotton and wool both lower than they have been for a long time, we see no reason why the people should not be able to purchase goods much below present rates.

BOOTS AND SHOES—Stocks have been arriving freely for ten days past, and dealers are now prepared to fill orders upon terms as reasonable as in any market west of the mountains. Owing to the advance in Boston prices are higher here, though they have not kept pace with the Eastern advance. We see no reason why they should decline, as hides and leather are firm, with an upward tendency, and we are still inclined to the opinion that dealers who are first in the market will realize the best bargains.

HATS AND CAPS—The stocks are large and complete, and dealers are prepared to supply their customers with the latest styles upon favorable terms.

CLOTHING—In this department we are glad to announce, not only that stocks are full, but that prices are fully 33 per cent. below what they were in the fall of 1865. We are confident that merchants from the interior will find the ranges of styles fully up to the requirements of the trade and the season, and at prices which will compare favorably with any other Western market.

DRUGS, PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—In no department of trade have we noticed more activity during the week than in this. In some instances it reminded us of those halcyon days before the war, when Louisville proudly challenged competition in this, as in many other branches of business. That trade is flowing back into its old channels, the drug department gives most satisfactory proof.

In the departments of hardware, leather and straw goods, as also in every other department of trade, merchants, visiting this market to make their purchases, will find ample stocks, which are being sold on satisfactory terms.

LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.

The market has been buoyant and active during the entire week, and prices have been fully maintained on all the grades. Advices from New York and Europe have been such as to impart increased vitality to the market, and good shipping leaf has been in active demand. In addition to this, there have been several buyers in the market from other cities, who have contributed to its buoyancy and aided in keeping prices up to present quotations. Among the sales of the week we notice at the Boone house 1 hhd Hart county cutting, of the celebrated crop grown by Carpenter & Sturgeon, at $41 50. At the Ninth street house we notice the sale of 1 hhd Henry county cutting at $29, and at the Boone house 1 hhd Owen county cutting at $31 50. At the Louisville house 1 hhd Illinois cutting that sold for $29. The market closed firm at the following quotations:

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

From the Times, Aug. 31.

The entered sales to-day as reported at the various scale houses, were: Cattle, [illegible],04; Hogs, 7,865; Sheep, 4,[illegible].

Cattle—Another dull day was experienced, and, as we predicted last night, prices gave way and a reduction of 5@15c per 100 lbs was suffered on common to medium butchers' stock and stock cattle generally and 2@5c on fair to choice steers. The weather was showery during the forenoon, which served to increase the morbid condition of trade, yet there was no visible improvement even after the storm had passed over, and the sky became clear and the air cool and bracing. We have seldom seen the market more completely in a dead lock than at the present time. There were 1,800 head on sale, and sellers, after all kinds of drumming for buyers, even at the reduction were unable to close out only 2,[illegible] head. To sum the whole matter up in a few words, there is a stringency in currency that checks both speculative and shipping demand, while the receipts are greatly in excess of the demand, and there are indications that a further reduction will be suffered before the yard can be cleared. We would be pleased to say something that would sound more cheerful to sellers, but the real condition of the market will not admit it. Buyers, however, are taking advantage of the crowded condition of the market to make unreasonable demands, and sellers should not submit to them and sacrifice their stock when adjacent prairies offer an abundant pasturage. The season is not far enough advanced for a permanent reduction to take place, and in a few days the market will recover its usual healthy tone. The quality of the stock to-day was the same as on yesterday, although there was a better demand for up per grades, and a few of the best droves were taken on New York account at $7@7 75.

The remaining sales were made at the same range. The market closed dull and despondent, with fully 6,400 head unsold.

Hogs—There was no decided change in prices today, yet the demand was less active, and the general tone of trade was not as favorable for sellers. The bulk of the best droves were taken for Boston, Philadelphia, Claveland and Buffalo at $9 55@10 15, while a few of the light bacon droves were taken on New York account at $9 75@9 90. The receipts are small and the average quality of the stock good.

Sheep—The market is overstocked with common grades, and prices are weak and lower. Even for the best grades the demand is meager, and it would be well for those having this class of stock to hold it back for the present. Sales were made at prices ranging at $3 [illegible]@4 50.

PITTSBURG LIVE STOCK MARKET.

From the Commercial, Aug. 31.

Cattle—The market was well supplied with stock. Buyers were on hand and took hold freely; in fact activity was the ruling feature of the market. Prices of certain descriptions were higher last week. Sales reached 1,500 head. This week they foot up 1,463 head. The extremes last week were $4 25@9 00 per cwt; this week $5 25@8 50 were the outside prices, although a majority of the sales were made between rates. The exports of cattle were, Way, 1,4[illegible]; Baltimore, none; Philadelphia, 858; New York, 461; total, 2,810 head against 3,2[illegible] head, a falling off amounting to 4[illegible] head. A number of choice lots passed through, the owners preferring to take the chances of the Eastern market.

Hogs—The market was dull; sales could not be made at ease at a decline from last week's prices. The entire number sold was 942 head against 1,635 last week, a falling amounting to 693 head. This week's rates were $10 25@10 50 against $[illegible]@[illegible] 25 per cwt. The exports were, To Philadelphia, 2,2[illegible]; Baltimore, 2,[illegible]; New York, 1,[illegible]; total, 5,[illegible] head against [illegible], a falling off amounting to 2,4[illegible] head.

Sheep—The offerings during the week here were large, the number exported to the various Eastern cities were 11,[illegible] head, being 1[illegible] below that of last week. The week's sales were 9,180 head against 4,[illegible] last week, an increase of [illegible] head. The rates were $3@4 per cwt. Those per head sold at a variety of prices, making the rates about the same as last week. At the close of the market there was a fair amount in pens.

ST. LOUIS LIVE STOCK MARKET.

ST. LOUIS, August 29.

Cattle—Receipts only 400 head this morning. The stock on hand is reducing rapidly and the demand is active and prices firm. Sales yesterday afternoon of 300 head, in small lots, at 4a6½c and 2[illegible] head this morning, including a lot of 101 head, averaging 1,300 lbs, at 4½a6½c per lb gross.

Hogs—Receipts 110 head. Market was dull and inactive, with sales of 40 head, averaging 230 lbs, at [illegible]c per lb.

Sheep—Receipt 2,640 head. The demand continues active, with sales of 1,200 head, in lots, at $1a3 50 per head.

Lambs—The market is steady, a demand for fat ones at $1a3 10 per head.

Sheep—Extra includes cossets, and when those of inferior quality are thrown out of the lot.

REMARKS.

Cattle—An increase of about 200 head of cattle at market last week: receipts 1382 head. Some of the drovers were satisfied with the market, but having bought their cattle three or four weeks ago, could not realize the profits they expected, others called it a hard market, and say they can get more for their cattle at home. Prices about the same for corresponding quality, although some of the medium qualities did not sell quite so high, and a few extra sold a shade higher, but we make very little variation in our quotations from last week. Quality was rather better. J. Sawyer brought in 2 choice oxen which were the best that he has brought to market this season. They were fatted by Capt Isaac Leavitt, the old almanac maker's son, Meredith, N. H., sold at $13 50 per cwt to J Taylor, estimated to dress 1250 lbs each, he also sold 1 fat oxen at $14 50 per cwt dress 12 cwt each. Frank Rufford sold 2 oxen at $13 25 per cwt dress 1060 pounds each; 2 steers at $[illegible] each, dress 4[illegible]0 lbs each; and 3 steers at $42 each, dress 4 cwt each. Fry & Moulton sold 4 steers at $[illegible] per cwt, dress 5 cwt each. M. Joyce sold his cows and heifers at $11a12 per cwt, dress 5 cwt each. J. Newton sold 3 two-year old heifers at $11 per cwt, dress 5 cwt each.

Sheep and Lambs—Price of sheep and lambs about 50c per head lower than last week. At the present time there is a great demand for mutton in the Boston market and vicinity, and when we see the receipts average 11,000 or 12,000 per week, it must be quite an item in trade. Quality about the same as last week, although more old sheep and less lambs at market. An active demand at reduced prices. J. F. Perry sold [illegible] spring lambs at $2 62 per head. H. D. Bryant sold 99 sheep at $3 per head, average [illegible] lbs. J. Lyman sold 100 lambs at $3 30 per head. M. Joyce sold 1[illegible] spring lambs at $4 30 per head. M. Alexander sold his lambs at $4 38 per head. A. Williamson sold 11 sheep at 6c per lb, average 90 lbs. J. Tower sold 40 sheep at 4½c per lb. Thayer & Chase sold [illegible] sheep at $3 40 per head, average 78 lbs.

River, Business and Weather.

—The river fell so slowly yesterday that it could hardly be noticed that it had fallen at all. There was 3 feet 5 inches scant water in the canal. Business was rather spirited on the levee. The weather was warm in the forenoon, after dinner a lively little shower of rain fell. Tilters had no business out in the wet.

Boats Leaving this Day.

The elegant Wild Wagoner, Capt. Sam. Hildreth, is the People's Line steamer for Cincinnati, at 11 o'clock this morning, from the foot of Fourth street. Mr. Alf. Armstrong will be found in the office, handsome and healthy as usual. Messrs. Deweese and McCullough will be found close by. All are clever and courteous gentlemen.

FOR ST. LOUIS.—The splendid low water packet, Havana, will leave the city wharf, at 10 o'clock this morning for Cairo and St. Louis. She is a splendid boat, with fine accommodations. She is in charge of Capt. Marsh, a clever gentleman, and Mr. Miles (not Paddy), the clerk, is another of the same sort.

Boats Leaving To-morrow.

The St. Charles is the People's Line packet for Cincinnati to-morrow morning, at 11 o'clock, from the foot of Fourth street.

FOR HENDERSON.—The gay and elegant Tarascon is the regular packet for Henderson to-morrow evening at five o'clock, from Portland. She is in charge of Capt. Jim Lusk, and the office contains Mr. John Overpacker and Arthur Field, two clever gentlemen and good-hearted, noble fellows.

Miscellaneous.

MURDER.—We learn that a fisherman murdered his wife, at Pinwhandle Point, on Thursday, and threw her body into the river. He is in jail at Bedford. We could not learn the cause of the murder, or the murderer's name.

IN GLOAK.—The crew of the Gipsey were grinning all over their faces yesterday. Jim Runyan and John Tyler looked as pleasing as a "basket of chips." Captain Pink must have "told 'em something."

—The estate of Henry Ames, Esq., well known on the lower waters, and who died lately at St. Louis, was valued at $[illegible]. It was divided as follows: $[illegible] to his widow, $[illegible] to her daughter by her first marriage, and $[illegible] to the O'Fallon Institute, which is a liberal institution of learning. The balance of his property goes to his only son, a little boy eight years old.

—The Lawrence brings two barges government freight to Jeffersonville from Cincinnati.

—The Cincinnati Times says:

Capt. Lew Vandergrift, it is reported, has traded his boat for a fine farm in Posey county, Indiana, including the stock, which consists of a famous [illegible] pound [illegible] and a boar—a good trade, we should judge. The Captain is a thorough gentleman, and a good whole-hearted Captain. His river friends will be pleased to see this, though we think the bull rather heavy, and the boar like a hoax.

—The Evansville Courier says:

The crew of the famous Liberty No. 2 passed down yesterday to turn the Liberty out for business. She will make two trips a week between Cairo and Memphis. Capt. Ed. Judge, her popular clerk, went through by rail from Louisville. Our Cairo friends may expect to see lightning work done between the two points when she turns loose.

—The Rose Hite, in trying to make a way landing on Wednesday, about a mile above the mouth of Green river, ran into a mud bar under a good head of steam, that she was unable to work herself off. She set her spars but found no bottom to the mud at 12 feet deep, and gave up the effort.

—The Mississippi Valley Transportation Company have recently purchased the wharf boat of the late Johnsonville Packet Company, at St. Louis, price paid reported at $1,000.

—Mr. Fred. Stamp, pilot of the Bermuda, has our thanks for favors.

—The river is very low here. The old wharf logs are visible to the naked eye.

AT HOME.—The many friends of Mr. Alf. Armstrong will be glad to know that he has returned from the Springs and resumed his position in the office of the Wild Wagoner.

REGULAR CLOVERPORT PACKET.—We take pleasure in announcing that Capt. Billy Scott has placed the neat little and handsome steamer Victor No. 2, in the trade between this port and Cloverport as a regular Thursday and Saturday packet. She is a good boat, and striving to establish a trade, and we hope our merchants and friends along the river will sustain her. Capt. Scott is a clever gentleman and a working man, and his clerk, Mr. Hacker, is a justly popular and courteous young man.

—The Engineers' Association desire to rent their splendid room to parties who will take good care of it. It is a fine room for such purposes.

—Capt. Ballard, of the Rose Hite, arrived here yesterday. The Rose is hard aground, out of the channel, and nothing short of a rise in the river will let her off.

—A new and handsome saloon, entitled "The Bank," is being fitted up, on Fourth street, between Main and the river. It will be opened tomorrow night for the reception of visitors. It is really a fine establishment.

O'NEAL'S ALLEY—This awful nuisance is in a most deplorable condition. We advise the Board of Health to pay it a visit, if they can.

—The St. Charles' freight manifest yesterday morning covered twenty four feet of paper—its length. "Biz is biz."

SALE—Captain Billy Smith yesterday disposed of his interest, one half, in the Louisville dry docks to Mr. Woods Ferguson and Mr. Gunsenhauser, for the sum of $4,945. It was a good investment.

—The Pink Varble went out last evening with a fair trip.

—September came in, yesterday, with a "waterfall." "The melon-cholic days have come, the meanest of the year."

HARD TO BE BEAT.—Mrs. Captain Sutton sent us, yesterday, two mammoth beets and two huge tomatoes, raised by herself, on Grayson street, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth. The beets were the largest we have ever seen, each weighing 3½ pounds. We thank Mrs. Sutton for them, and will say they are "hard to beat."

—Parson Brownlow sneaked through the city to Philadelphia, day before yesterday. There's a dead dog on Center street. He must have killed himself barking at Browny.

—There was another large fire at Cairo night before last.

—The little Emma Logan was sold at Pittsburg a few days ago, for $20,000, by the United States Marshal.

—Capt. Tom Phillips, of the Gipsy, has challenged Uncle Harry Parmale, wharfmaster, to fight a duel on 12 Mile island, "when the cows come home." Weapons—Bologna sausage and smearcase. Distance—Three feet. Time—All day. As it is a private affair no one expected to be present. We are invited to bury the dead and sell their old clothes to pay freight on their corpses.

J. M. VAUGHAN, Clerk.

A Gay Bigamist—A Minister's Son Marries Two Girls Within Six Weeks.

From the Saginaw, Mich., Enterprise.

Last week a young couple came to our city and stopped at the American Hotel. The gentleman was genteelly dressed, and appeared like one who moved in good society. The lady was young and pretty—looked as though the cares of life she was entering rested lightly upon her fair shoulders. They had been in the town but a short time when an officer from abroad appeared on the scene in search of a young gentleman answering the description of the party above mentioned, for whom he had a warrant for arrest on a charge of bigamy. After a pretty thorough search the young couple were found, although it does not appear that they sought concealment. The young man proved to be the person the officer sought. He was accordingly taken into custody and placed in the county jail for present safe keeping.

This happened on Sunday last. Monday morning, when the jailer went his rounds among the cells, the prisoner was missing—the bird had flown. Subsequently it was ascertained that he had made his escape through a very small aperture in the cell-door, through which food was sometimes passed to prisoners. Being a slim person, and possessing a good deal of the serpent in his nature, he was able, to use a homely saying, "to crawl out of a small hole," which he accordingly did, and made good his escape, as before intimated. We yesterday called upon the lady whom he called his wife, from whom we obtained the following story of wrong and villainy. Her name is Miss Alexander, and she is seventeen years of age. Previous to the farce of marrying this man, she resided with her mother and stepfather in a little country town about ten miles from the village of [illegible] Corners, where she became acquainted with a gay and festive young man by the name of Edwin M. Chambers, the son of a Methodist minister residing at or near Kalamazoo. The young man appeared to have plenty of money, was well-dressed, good-looking, with raven hair, curling over a massive brow, and pleasing and winning in his address.

Mr. Chambers was about twenty years of age when he first caught sight of Miss Alexander, and, to use his own ecstatic language, "his soul was fired with love" for the beautiful girl with her bright face, her bewitching curls, dark as midnight, her sylph-like form, and her sweet winning ways. He sought an introduction to her which was consummated, and he thought himself a lucky man. He made love to her after the most approved fashion, which she, fond enthusiast, returned with all the ardor of her young trusting heart.

The young man finally broached the subject of marriage. She blushingly referred him to Ma, who, perhaps, thinking her daughter had chosen the better part, consented to the nuptials. We would here state that the young lady's stepfather was a man well to do in the world, and, although by no means demonstrative, placed no bar in the way of the young people, undoubtedly thinking them both, however, rather young to marry. The course of true love had, up to this time, apparently ran smoothly, when the young man was suddenly called away to a distant town on real or pretended business. As is usual in such cases, he left his fair affianced in tears, but, tearing himself away from her embrace, hurried off on the next train. We will now follow the course of the young gentleman lover. After leaving the presence of the confiding girl, he pursued his course until he reached a little country place about six miles from Detroit, called Bedford. Here he threw off every restraint which thoughts of the trusting creature he had left behind should have a tendency to throw around him, and began to make merry with the maidens of Bedford, among whom, with his elegant "store clothes," he created considerable of a stir. One bright particular star again threw its rays over the young man's susceptible heart; another pair of love-lit eyes smote him in the region of the vest pocket, and he loved again with the balance of his soul. On the part of the young lady it was a case of love at first sight; on the part of the young man, love at second sight. To cut the matter short, he wooed her, he won her, and he married her. This was in December, 1865. He then left his young bride and returned to the "girl he left behind him," who was, of course, happy to see her betrothed once more. He now urged Miss A. to set a day for their marriage, which she did. The Rev. Mr. Chambers, Edwin's father, was called in, and the marriage ceremony was again performed, although another stood by his side. The second marriage took place about six weeks after the first. Up to the day of the young scoundrel's arrest the two had lived happily together, and the first intimation the supposed wife had of Chambers' perfidy was on Sunday last from the officer who arrested him. The poor girl deeply feels the wrong inflicted upon her by the unprincipled scoundrel, who is doubtless, ere this, after another victim. Pass him around. Don't forget his name, which is Edwin M. Chambers. He is slightly built, genteelly dressed, with dark curling hair and fine features, and twenty-one years of age.

AUGUSTA
MALE AND FEMALE COLLEGE,
AUGUSTA, KY.

THIS INSTITUTION IS FAVORABLY SITUATED, 45 miles above Cincinnati, and affords peculiar educational advantages. The buildings are commodious, in good repair, and neatly furnished. Augusta is very healthy, and in other respects is admirably fitted for the seat of a Literary Institution. The Board of Instruction is composed of teachers who, in their respective departments, are highly qualified. Both sexes are educated in this Institution to the special advantage of each. The grade of scholarship is high, and the discipline is such as to secure the highest good to the student. The curriculum of studies compares favorably with the very best seminaries, which, when passed through, and thoroughly understood, entitle the student to the usual testimonials of literary honors, since the College is regularly chartered. In the higher literary studies, as well as in music and the ornamental branches, students have the very best advantages, and the expenses are much less than in the same grade of Seminaries.

REV. CARTER PAGE'S
INSTITUTE FOR YOUNG LADIES.

THIS INSTITUTION IS SITUATED IN THE beautiful Beargrass region, five miles from the city of Louisville, on the Louisville and Shelbyville turnpike, and within a half mile of Gilman's Station, on the L. & F. R. R. The buildings were erected especially for a female school, and are admirably adapted to that purpose.

The Institution was conducted for twelve years by the Rev. George Beckett, and during the last year by the present proprietor, and during that whole period there was never a death, and only one instance of serious illness, among the pupils.

The number of pupils is limited to thirty, in order to furnish those domestic comforts and enjoyments not to be met with in large schools. The proprietor has been a teacher for nearly twenty years, and will be aided in his present work by a full corps of able assistants.

For further particulars address REV. CARTER PAGE, St. Mathew's, Jefferson county, Ky.

MEDICAL.

A FEW WORDS OF COMMON SENSE.

HOW FEW THERE ARE WHO ARE NOT subject to some affection of the lungs or respiratory organs, who, by neglecting premonitory symptoms, aggravate the complaint, until disease strikes its shafts, causing inexpressible torture of the patient, and anxiety and distress to friends. "It's only a cold!" "A slight sore throat!" is the heedless remark of many when so affected. Yes, "Only a cold," was the thoughtless expression of thousands whom death has marked for his prey.

Forewarned—Forearmed—should be the motto forever in the minds of all subject to Coughs, Colds, Catarrh, or Influenza. Words of advice should be heeded by all suffering from Asthma, Bronchitis, Consumption. Relief is within their reach, and, if neglected, fatal consequences ensue—a life of misery—a daily, hourly strife—an eternal [illegible]. A contest in which there can be but one victor—Death!

Does it not appal the strongest mind, to think of the result caused by neglect? Then why delay? What excuse can be offered, when timely warning is sounded in your ears? When the danger is pointed out, why not avoid it? MARSDEN'S PECTORAL BALM has been used with success in many a million of cases, and is indorsed by the Medical Faculty as the most prompt and efficacious remedy that scientific research has discovered to relieve and cure all cases of Coughs, Colds, Influenza and Consumption, if the case is not beyond all hope. Even when the sufferer is in the last stages, he will find relief by using this preparation. One bottle will convince the most incredulous that the merits of this preparation are not in the least exaggerated. In fact, fall far short of the eulogies bestowed upon it by thousands who have been cured by its timely use. A guarantee accompanies each bottle, and dealers are instructed to return the money when the preparation fails to relieve.

Prepared by T. W. Marsden, 487 Broadway, New York, and for sale by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.

MARSDEN'S CALISAYA TONIC,

In convalescence from Cholera, Malignant Fevers, Small Pox, or any Contagious Affections, will be found invaluable, giving tone to the system and removing all the [illegible] effects of the disease. The universal and popular knowledge of the virtues of Peruvian Calisaya Bark requires no explanation; centuries have passed since its discovery, and it is now recognized as the best tonic with which bountiful nature has favored us. Science has discovered [illegible] the means of [illegible] and reducing to a small bulk the active principles of the Bark, viz: Quinine, Cinchonine, etc., all of which are inventive as medicinal agents.

The great want of a good and reliable tonic in cases of [illegible], Night Sweats, Scrofula, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, and all other diseases incidental to a deranged system, has induced the proprietor to present this to the medical profession and sufferers as the most reliable and powerful tonic that can be prepared combining, as it does, all the active principles of the Peruvian Bark, with other ingredients which render it the perfection of a remedy for all the above.

Prepared by T. W. Marsden, 487 Broadway, New York, and for sale by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
